Policing Main Idea Of Parley Dulles Sees False Equality in Bloc

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Russian effort to force acceptance of Soviet bloc parity in major East-West negotiations threatened today to block the opening of a scientific conference on detection of nuclear explosions.

The agreed purpose of the talks, scheduled to open July 1 in Geneva, is to try to work out a system for policing any future agreement to halt testing of nuclear weapons.

Hope Soviets Accept

State Department officials said they hoped the Soviet government would accept a lineup for the talks in which the Communist side would be composed of experts from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia and the Western side made up of experts from the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

The proposed Western panel was presented to the U.S. embassy in Moscow. The panel includes three American scientists, two from Britain and one each from France and Canada.

Designated to head the group was Dr. James B. Fisk, vice president of Bell Telephone Laboratories and a member of President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee.

Would Use Bloc Nations

Officials here said there was no doubt the Russians were trying to establish the principle of parity, which they have been pushing at the United Nations and elsewhere since last fall.

The Russians mean by this principle that in any important negotiation there should be as many Soviet bloc nations represented as there are Western nations.

Dulles Is Opposed

Secretary of State Dulles has spoken out publicly against the parity idea on the ground that it would vastly complicate all sorts of negotiations, such as disarmament talks under the United Nations. Dulles also contends it would set up a false kind of equality between completely independent Western countries such as Britain and France and countries in the Soviet bloc such as Czechoslovakia.

In the current exchanges over setting up the Geneva conference, Russia has taken the position all along that its side at the conference table would be manned by scientists from the Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Summer Arrives At 5:57 Today

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Summer is here.

The first day of summer officially arrives at 5:57 p. m. the time the sun and earth view each other from a summery angle, known as the summer solstice.

And warmly dressed New Yorkers feel it's high time for summer to call. June has been unusually cool in the state. So far, the Weather Bureau said, temperatures averaged 5.8 below normal. Last year, they averaged 3.2 degrees above.

So-so weather was the expected weekend fare—low temperatures in the chilling 40s and highs in the vaguely thawing 60s and 70s. Friday, daytime temperatures ranged from New York City's high of 60 degrees to Massena's 78.

The will of Judge Fleming makes provision for Mrs. Fleming; his son, Dr. Arthur S. Fleming and wife, Bernice V. M. Fleming; his daughter, Elizabeth and husband, Donald J. Sherbondy; a brother, Thomas W. Fleming, and sister, Miss Anna Fleming.

It also provides specific bequests to his associate in the practice of law, and to employees of the Rondout Savings Bank of which he was president.

The specific bequests to the institutions and individuals listed in the will are as follows:

During that time 275 girls, juniors from high schools throughout the state, will undergo an intensive citizenship training program. ### Herbert B. Swope Funeral Will Be Private Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Private funeral services for Herbert Bayard Swope, 76, once proclaimed "the best reporter in America," will be conducted Sunday.

The services, for the family and a few close friends, will be held at 2 p. m. at his Sands Point, N. Y., home on Long Island. Swope died at Doctors Hospital Friday.

First for Pulitzer

Swope was the first newspaperman ever to win a Pulitzer Prize. During 20 years as sparkplug of the old New York morning newspaper, the World, he was a reporter, city editor and executive editor. He was the first chairman of the New York State Racing Commission, a founder of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and a former director of The Associated Press.

After entering the hospital June 12, Swope underwent surgery Monday for an intestinal ailment. Postoperative pneumonia set in the next day. His family was with him when he died.

Born in St. Louis, he was the youngest son of a wealthy watch case manufacturer. A brother, Gerard, became president of the General Electric Co.

Fired on First Job

Swope began his newspaper career on the St. Louis Post-Dispatch at the age of 18. He said he was fired for spending too much time coaching a football team.

He got a job on the Chicago Tribune and then moved to the New York Herald.

In 1908, he joined the New York World. He won the Pulitzer Prize for foreign correspondence as a result of his war dispatches from Germany during the early part of World War I.

Headed Press Group

Returning to this country when it declared war on Germany, Swope was named assistant to Bernard M. Baruch, his lifelong friend, on the War Industries Board. After the armistice, Swope accompanied President Woodrow Wilson to the Paris peace conference and headed the official American press delegation.

The most glittering period of his glamorous life was the nine years as executive editor of the World. His policy on the World was to "pick out what appears to be the one best story of the day and then hammer the living hell out of it, subordinating all others."

Called Best Reporter

Lord Northcliffe, British publisher, called Swope "the best reporter in America."

Swope resigned from the World in 1929 after a disagreement with its owner, William Randolph Hearst.

N.Y. Farmers Vote To Keep Present Controls on Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers voted Friday for the sixth straight year to keep a somewhat ineffective federal clamp on wheat production.

A referendum held in 38 commercial producing states resulted in 165,868 votes for controls on the 1959 wheat crop and 32,342 votes against curbs. This was a majority of 83.7 per cent, far more than the necessary two thirds.

New York State farmers voted 509-313 for continuing the present quotas. There were 829 votes cast. Last year, 927 of the state's farmers voted in the referendum. In favor were 588.

The outcome was no surprise to farm officials and leaders even though the program has been under attack on the ground it has failed to prevent the accumulation of what may turn out this year to be the largest wheat surplus on record.

The alternative—freedom to produce at much lower prices—was generally looked upon as even less inviting.

The program imposes marketing quotas on individual farms and assesses penalties on excess sales.

IBM Dedicates New Owego Plant

OWEGO, N. Y. (AP) — A new military products plant of International Business Machines Corp. was dedicated Friday.

More than 8,000 persons attended the ceremony in front of the administration building. The plant is along Route 17C.

The plant in this Tioga County community produces the bombing navigational system for the B-32 intercontinental bomber of the Strategic Air Command.

Onteora District Will Vote Today

Onteora Central School District's eligible voters go to the polls today from 2 to 9 p. m. at the school, Boiceville, to decide the fate of two propositions—construction of a 10-room addition to the West Hurley School and for a new 14-room school building on the Weatherby property in Phenicia.

The proposal calls for a $976,600 bond issue—$370,400 for the West Hurley addition and $606,200 for the Phenicia school.

A previous proposal on a $1,456,800 bond issue was defeated 1,169 to 405.

Enrollment at Onteora is approximately 1,475, and an additional 100 are expected to be registered in September.

If the proposal for expansion is approved and work started this summer, the buildings are not expected to be ready for occupancy until the fall of 1959.

Press Is Split Over Adams Case Some Temperate, Others Vehement

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Many of the newspapers that supported Dwight D. Eisenhower for the presidency have split on the issue of whether he should retain Sherman Adams as his chief White House aide.

The tone of many—but not all—of the Adams-should-go editorials in pro-Republican newspapers has been moderate. On the other hand, two prominent papers that supported the retention of Adams did so in vigorous, almost vehement terms.

Dems for Ouster

Democratic papers generally called for Adams' ouster.

Adams admitted accepting gifts from industrialist Bernard Goldfine and making certain telephone calls inquiring into government matters concerning Goldfine.

Eisenhower, while saying he thought his assistant might have been imprudent, voiced full confidence in the flinty New Englander and said he would retain him.

An example of temperate comment by a paper favoring Adams' resignation came from the Tucson, Ariz., Daily Citizen, which supported Eisenhower.

Resign: Best Service

"Even though he may be a martyred victim of circumstances, Mr. Adams can render final great service to the President by resigning."

One of the more vehement advocates of Adams' resignation was the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, which supported Eisenhower in both his 1952 and 1956 campaigns.

"If his resignation is not immediately forthcoming voluntarily it should be sought by the President—who cannot possibly condone an incident that nauseates the nation."

News Favors Departure

The New York Daily News, also a two-time Eisenhower supporter, commented in the same vein:

"We think the President should reconsider his refusal to heave Adams—or, if Gen. Ike can't bring himself to do that, Adams, touted as a shrewd politician, should act like one in his own case and resign."

An editorial in Life magazine, which supported Eisenhower in both his campaigns, said of Adams:

"However regrettable it may be in many ways, his resignation is the best way to insure the principle of morality in government continuance."

There will be a six-county meeting at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie, Tuesday night. Attending will be representatives from Orange, Dutchess, Putnam, Columbia, Greene and Ulster.

Kelly decided that, whenever the youth might reapply for a license or registration, his application would be turned down. A spokesman for the commissioner said that if the youth succeeded in obtaining a license elsewhere and were found driving in this state, his record would be sent to the state that issued the license.

An aide to the commissioner said such bans had been imposed previously against adult drivers. But no one in the bureau could recall when a driver so young had been penalized that way.

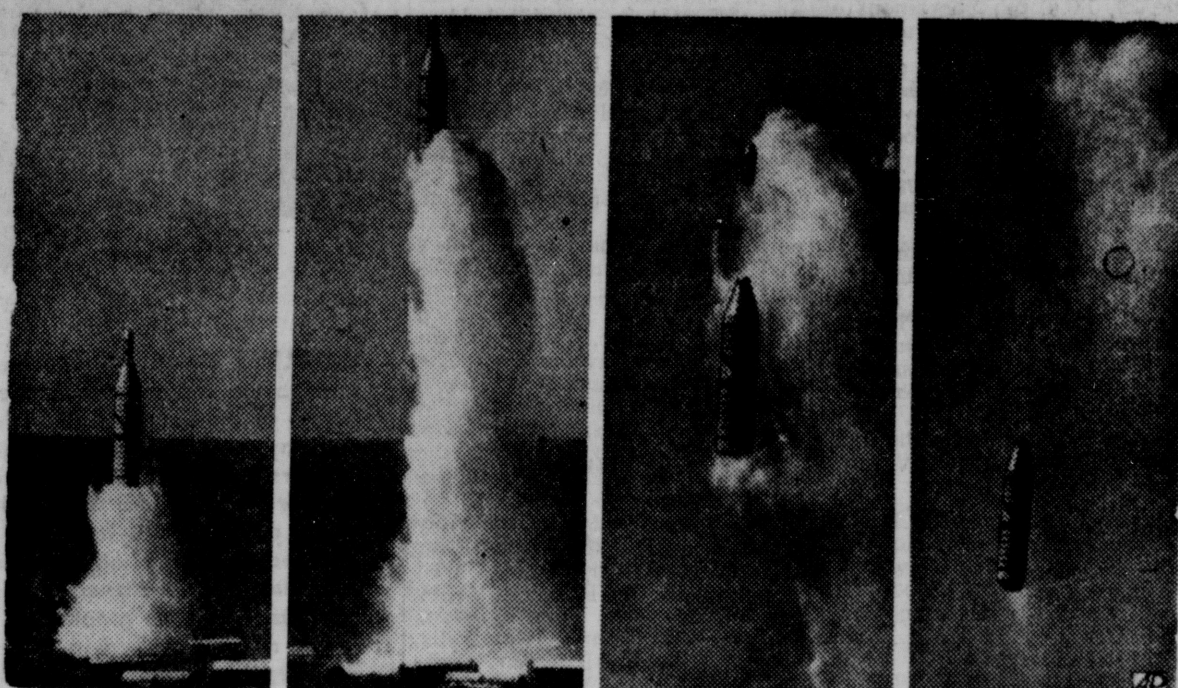

Orsino had a junior operator's permit. On July 18, he will turn 18, the age at which he would have been eligible for an adult license.

State regulations permit a driver to reapply for a license or registration a year after it has been revoked. The commissioner then has the power to decide whether the application should be granted.

Kelly's office conceded it was possible that the commissioner eventually might change his mind or that a future commissioner might see things differently.

But, he added, the record's there and he's seldom seen one like it.

Fete Plans Are Discussed With Netherlands Man

Holland's Deputy Consul General H. Evan Raienstein of New York City was in Kingston Friday to discuss the Hudson-Champlain celebration next year with local leaders.

He met with Harry Rigby Jr., Ulster County chairman for the celebration, and Albert C. Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Raienstein is particularly interested in the Hudson phase of the celebration. His country would like to participate in some way, he said, since the early history of the state is bound so closely with The Netherlands.

Kurdt said the visit by the consul general was particularly welcome since the committee was planning to contact the consulate to invite Dutch participation.

There will be a six-county meeting at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie, Tuesday night. Attending will be representatives from Orange, Dutchess, Putnam, Columbia, Greene and Ulster.

Pact Halts Tieup At 2 Coast Ports

NEW YORK (AP)—A maritime strike that tied up American-flag ships in East and Gulf coast ports for five days is over.

The Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn., representing engine room officers on 480 passenger and cargo ships, signed a new three-year contract Friday night with a ship owners' committee headed by Ralph E. Casey, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute.

No Wage Boost

There was no wage increase in the new contract.

The MEBA was the last of four maritime unions to reach new work agreements with the ship-owners' organization this week.

Agreement on the new pact came while the huge liner American, with 1,000 passengers aboard, waited at her pier. The ship had recruited nonunion engineers, but these were replaced by MEBA members after agreement was reached.

Forced to Sign

Casey said the ship operators were forced to sign the new contract after the MEBA won a similar settlement Thursday with Pacific Coast ship operators.

"We had to agree," he said. "We couldn't hold out after they signed."

Jesse Calhoun, chief MEBA negotiator, said the most important union gain in the contract was employer recognition for the first time of the principle of severance pay for men whose ships were sold or transferred to foreign registry. He said the severance pay provision will be worked out in further discussions.

Fringe Benefits

The contract also provides for a $50 pension increase to a rate of $150 a month. It extends the former 28-day annual vacation to 48 days for engineers employed more than one year by a single company. The vacation will be increased to 60 days a year as of June 16, 1959. Engineers with less than one year with the same company will get a vacation boost from 14 to 30 days.

The new pact also calls for an increase in welfare benefits and the addition of an extra engineer to Atlantic and Gulf coast ships.

Engineer earnings average $493 to $1,052 a month.

Must Close Ranks, Is His Advice

Goldfine Says He Will Meet Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nixon, seeking to calm Republican jitters over the Sherman Adams controversy, says party leaders should close ranks and not panic.

In a pep talk Friday night to Republican state chairmen, Nixon said:

"The trouble with Republicans is that when they get into trouble they start acting like a bunch of cannibals."

Nixon's words were reported by two state chairmen who said the vice president made no direct reference to Adams. President Eisenhower's top aide.

A growing number of Republican congressmen have called for Adams to step out or be fired in the light of his acknowledged acceptance of favors from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

Many Republicans feel GOP election prospects this fall will be harmed if Adams remains as top White House aide even though President Eisenhower says he needs Adams.

Doubts Serious Effect

But one state chairman, Alphonzo E. Bell Jr. of California, said Nixon, without mentioning Adams' name, expressed doubt the controversy "will have much effect on the November elections."

Bell said that "as far as California is concerned, the vice president thinks the improvement in the economy will far outweigh any other issue." He added he agrees with Eisenhower that Adams should stay on the job.

Thomas G. Judd, Utah state chairman, quoted Nixon as saying Republicans "should pull together regardless of the circumstances."

Cement Workers Accept Alpha's One-Year Pact

Members of Local 53, United Cement, Lime & Gypsum Workers International Union, employees of Alpha Portland Cement Co., Alsen, voted Thursday night to accept the one-year contract offered by management.

The meeting of the local was held at St. Mary's Church Hall, Cementon with Steve Nickolich, president of the local, presiding.

It was reported that an assessment on all members was voted to support the striking employees of Lehigh Portland Cement Co., at Alsen. The amount of the assessment was not divulged.

Following a pattern of previous agreements reached at North American Cement Co., Catskill plant, and Universal Atlas Cement Co., Hudson, the contract agreement includes an eight cent hourly general pay increase, an additional two cents to correct pay inequities, time and one-fifth for Sunday work and fringe benefits including pensions and job security.

Summer Outlook in Key Businesses on Upsurge

By WALTER BREED JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Summer's advent found business on the upbeat in most key lines this week. But you could feel soft spots here and there.

Steel production hit its fastest pace since December. Freight carloadings touched a new 1958 high. One of the nation's biggest producers hiked the price of copper.

A poll by the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. found retailers betting on a good summer season. Radio Corp. of America reported a big increase in sales of color TV sets. Texas authorities set a slightly higher limit for July on the state's permissible output of crude oil. The rate of business failures around the country continued to decline.

There were prospects, though, that industrial production would soon bog down in a summer lull.

The steel pickup lost some of its luster when Bethlehem Steel Corp. shut down four furnaces at its Lackawanna, N. Y., works. Steel customers have contributed to the upturn by buying to beat an expected price boost. Once the price rise deadline is past, many steel users will resume living off their inventories. They know they can get steel any time they want it.

Railroads were told this week to expect a sharp decline in freight traffic in the heavily industrialized Great Lakes region.

The Great Lakes Regional Shippers Advisory Board predicted that carloadings in the Great Lakes district in the next three months will trail last year's pace by about 29 per cent. Shipments of steel, ore and automobiles are expected to show the greatest drop.

There was good news for the ailing railroad industry, too. The Senate voted to kill the three per cent excise tax on rail freight tariffs and the 10 per cent federal tax on passenger fares. For auto manufacturers, the news was not so good. The manufacturers' excise tax on autos stays.

Job prospects for college graduates — not too bright a couple of months ago — have gotten better.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Christ's Early Ministry-3

GALILEE, ISRAEL—After John the Baptist went to prison, Jesus went to the country around the Lake of Galilee to preach the gospel of the kingdom of God. His was a lonely mission until one day, walking along the shore, He saw two fishermen, the brothers Peter and Andrew, casting their nets into the sea. "Follow Me," He exhorted, "and I will make you fishers of men." The power of His love was so great that straight off they followed Him, dropping their nets and receiving faith to inspire new friends and followers. Today the lovely lake still bespeaks the presence of the greatest of all fishermen. As I recently walked its shores, fish leaped and flashed over the deep blue water. A long legged bird stood majestically on a rock. Flatsom of feathers, fronds, pine cones and orange peels bobbed on the gentle water. And, like those first apostles, fishermen stood casting their nets into the sea.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 21, 1958

EX POST FACTO WISDOM

Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams wrote his own best comment on his case when he acknowledged before the Harris subcommittee that he had been imprudent.

He said he would not do again what he did a few years ago, namely, place a call to a federal agency to inquire for a friend upon the status of his case before that agency.

Unfortunately, wisdom in this vital field came a little late to Adams. To be sure, he was green at federal government when he came to Washington in 1953. But he was a seasoned politician, a former governor of New Hampshire.

He, like all others who enter upon government service, should have known at the outset that there can be no mixing of friendship with public responsibility.

Admittedly there is more informality in these matters at the state and local levels of government. But even this cannot be condoned. And certainly it should be obvious to any man committed to a course of proper conduct—as Adams clearly was—that the most airtight standards must apply for all who serve a president closely.

In this instance it is particularly bad that he has embarrassed President Eisenhower, who because of three serious illnesses has been more dependent than some presidents upon a strong chief of staff. The President has openly conceded this reliance.

Adams unquestionably believes sincerely that he did not in fact try to exercise any influence in behalf of his friend Bernard Goldfine, and that no federal agency responded with special favor.

He also believes that he at no time allowed favors done by Goldfine for him to affect his scrupulous handling of the government's affairs.

But it is not enough that a man shall so persuade himself. It is not enough that he believes in his own heart he resisted and can always resist the subtle influences of friendship.

What is enough is that everyone shall accept him as above suspicion. And this is possible only if he divests himself of all gift-giving, hospitality-taking entanglements with friends, and takes not the smallest action in their behalf with any government official or agency.

Adams knows he was imprudent to deal even routinely with a federal agency in Goldfine's behalf. He must also understand he was equally unwise in maintaining his friendship on the easy-going basis of an ordinary citizen. There are no ordinary citizens in the White House.

Soviet industrial managers don't worry about strike threats. What they worry about is being struck by Kremlin lightning if they don't meet their quotas.

DRIVING IS SERIOUS WORK

For years the safety specialists have been telling us—with good reason—that the split second when we're not looking is too often the fatal moment when highway accidents happen.

Now, as another long Fourth of July weekend looms for the nation's motorists, we hear from the National Safety Council again that death can happen in the "wink of an eye."

When you are behind the wheel, there is no substitute for constant alertness. Safe driving calls for unflagging concentration. And concentration, let's face it, is work.

If you think driving ought to be fun, that your car is a mobile living room for social chitchat and lots of head-turning, or a kind of traveling play pen, you'd best stay off today's crowded highways.

You belong there only if you make driving a deadly serious business, and remember that death can strike in that fifth of a second when nature makes your eyes blink.

Teen-agers' telephone conversations are always secret, not matter who hears them. No one else can understand what they're talking about.

JAPAN'S PROBLEMS

Japan's problem is the same as that of many other nations, namely, that Japan has goods to export and the United States is the best market. As long as the United States remains the best market for manufactured goods, it will attract dumping; how long that will be so is dependent upon the circumstances:

1. How many Americans are employed in the United States?

2. How much the American dollar is worth. If five or six million Americans are out of work, partly because too much goods is being imported from other countries, this market will, after a while, not be so good for the exporter; if the American dollar continues to drop in value, Americans will be forced to take steps to protect its economy.

At any rate, from the press agents for the Japan External Trade Recovery Organization comes a bulletin entitled "Jetro," and in it is a statement by Harold F. Wendel, president of Lipman, Wolfe & Co., which is described as the major department store of Portland, Oregon. Mr. Wendel, according to this press agency, makes the original remark:

"America may use Japan as an ally unless we can expand our trade with that country."

That was true, to my certain knowledge as early as 1915 and is true today, except that the march of invention has practically eliminated Japan's principal export, silk, which was exchanged in this country for cotton. Silk was a splendid product for Japan to export to the United States because we made none of our own and our women consumed huge quantities of it. It was a product which Americans never sought to make although there was a raw silk industry in Italy and France. Then came rayon, nylon and all sorts of synthetic products which our women prefer to silk, particularly as stockings, and the silk industry in Japan suffered even before war obliterated the American market.

The result of this change in the market is that Japan must sell us goods which we ourselves grow and make. At one time, Japan practically had a monopoly of the camphor market of the world, but today synthetic substitutes for camphor abound. Japan's exports tend more and more to be manufactured goods.

Actually, the United States is a very poor market for Japanese exports, except the muck and truck trade, meaning small items made in small factories and home industries. Such goods also come from Germany and Czechoslovakia. The very best market for Japanese exports is China, including Manchuria, and it was to hold this market that Japan went to war against China twice, and Russia twice. It would have been sounder, from an economic as well as historical standpoint, if Japan rather than Soviet Russia had conquered China, if China had to be conquered at all. But the geniuses who presided over American policy in the Roosevelt Administration preferred Communist Russia to capitalist Japan, with the result, that in the year 1958, Harold F. Wendel of Portland, Oregon, can repeat the old refrain that "A country's loyalty is undoubtedly gone where her economic interest lies."

In a word, Wendel believes that Japan will be forced to join Red China and Soviet Russia in order to sell her goods on the continent of Asia which needs Japanese goods. And he is correct. The United States actually does not need what Japan makes, but American merchants buy in Japan because of the price factor. Japanese goods are cheaper because Japanese wages are lower, the standard of life is lower, and the people work harder than ours do.

The fact that the United States is the best market means that this country is beset by the political problem of keeping its allies sweet while at the same time keeping Americans at work. Japan, for instance, offers bicycles, motorcycles, cameras, sewing machines, precision instruments, electronic tools of various kinds—all of which are also made in the United States at higher wages, higher costs and higher taxes.

The press agents add Japanese beer and Scotch whiskey, with both of which I am familiar. If one drinks Scotch whiskey, I recommend the kind that comes from Scotland.

Ultimately, Japan will have to build a market in China, India, Indonesia, etc. The plan to build Japan's principal market in the United States is as impractical today as it was in the first two decades of the Twentieth Century. (Copyright, 1958, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Emotional Reaction to Disease Is Different in Each Individual

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Written for NEA Service

The writer of today's first letter has two friends who are behaving like human beings.

Q—Two of my friends have had heart attacks. One talks about himself in a normal way and is glad to have his friends about. The other will not even mention his attack and pretends it didn't happen. But it all seems such a strain, as he knows he is sick and so on. I. The man who has accepted the fact of his illness seems in a much happier mood. The one who refuses to admit it seems tense and tightened up inside. What is the best way to act with him?—M.

A—No two people react exactly alike emotionally to an illness which afflicts them or those close to them. Each of us when faced with such a problem has to settle his attitude in his own way.

Although you may feel happier about the attitude of your first friend, it is my opinion that if your second friend wishes to pretend that nothing has happened to him, that is his business and it might be best to go along with him.

Q—Does a moderate amount of alcohol, such as about 8 to 10 tablespoons used daily as an appetite stimulant, conflict with chemicals that are given to tuberculosis patients?—Mrs. E. B.

A—Alcohol is absorbed from the digestive tract very rapidly so that I should expect that a small amount, if taken one-half hour or more before the chemicals, would probably not have any effect, either on absorption of the drugs or on their action.

Whether alcohol as an appetite stimulant for a patient with tuberculosis is advisable or not, however, is a different matter.

Q—My 14-year-old daughter has had a scar-like disfigurement on her hand for about three years. Our doctor says it is a keloid and that nothing should be done for it. Would you discuss this, please?—E. B.

A—A keloid is considered a benign tumor of the skin consisting of dense scar-like tissue. When removed by surgery there is an extraordinary tendency to regrow, so that it certainly sounds as though the advice you have received was correct.

Q—Within the last year I have had blood blisters on the side of my tongue. They appear suddenly after I have eaten and usually disappear in an hour or so, but the last one stayed for more than 12 hours. They are about the size of a small thimble. Could they be the forerunner of something serious and should I consult a physician?—Mrs. D.

A—It is virtually impossible to guess at the cause of these peculiar blisters. However, they are certainly not normal and I would strongly urge you to see your physician, preferably when he could see the blood blisters.

Q—How can a person get a hole in his diaphragm that would allow one-fifth of the stomach to force its way through? Does this mean surgery?—J. W.

A—This is known as a hernia of the diaphragm. It is a weakness in the muscle, usually at a point in the diaphragm through which the digestive tract passes. Surgery is probably needed in this case.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

The cases of Eisenhower administration officials' "bad judgment" — to use the polite phrase — are growing into quite a formidable list. Democratic orators will unquestionably use it in their 1958 and 1960 campaigns.

Ex-Gov. Sherman Adams, The Assistant to the President, defends his acceptance of $2,000 worth of hotel hospitality from his old friend Bernard Goldfine. But this was just the kind of stuff the Republicans made political hay with in 1952, after Democratic administration officials were caught accepting Florida hotel hospitality from five centers.

The two things that stuck in most voters' minds in 1952 were probably the $9,450 mink coat given to White House stenographer Mrs. Merl Young and the $300 home freezers accepted by White House aides Harry Vaughan, Matt Connelly, James K. Vardaman and Mrs. Bess Truman herself.

THE REPUBLICANS, coming into power in 1953, have refined this crude technique quite a bit.

Last October Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower accepted $1,800 worth of beaver pelts which she had made into a coat at a cost to her of $385. This was accepted on the grounds that the publicity would help the Maine fur trappers. The dumb Democrats never thought of that.

Then last January Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced that there were five TV sets in the White House "on loan" from manufacturers. He asked belligerently, "What is wrong with it?"

The GOP mistakes the most Democratic "mistake in judgment" like that. They compiled a "Democratic Corruption Chronology, 1945-52." It was 14 pages long and it listed 154 examples, though there were some duplications.

Many of these cases involved district internal revenue agents, state and local politicians.

NOBODY HAS YET compiled a comparable list during the Republican years from 1953 to date — like the Orville Hodge scandals in Illinois. But it might be an interesting research project some time.

There are, however, a dozen or more cases of Washington Republican officials' "bad judgment" in the last five and a half years which can be compared with similar Democratic cases.

Highlights of the GOP list run like this: March, 1953—GOP Chairman C. Wesley Roberts resigns after disclosure of Kansas state lobbying activities.

July, 1955—The late Harold E. Talbot resigns as Air Force secretary after charges of soliciting private business.

October, 1955—T. Coleman Andrews resigns as Internal Revenue commissioner to head a casualty company that had a five-and-a-half-million-dollar tax case pending.

November, 1955—Peter A. Strobel resigns as public buildings commissioner after charges he used his office to further interests of his private engineering firm's clients.

November, 1955—Hugh W. Cross resigns as Interstate Commerce Commission chairman after Senate probe of his intervention in a Chicago transportation contract.

November, 1955—Dixon-Yates contract declared invalid because Adolph H. Wenzel acted as Budget Bureau consultant while an executive of First Boston Corp., a financial agent.

February, 1956—Edmund F. Mansure resigns as General Services administrator after disclosures of alleged favoritism in awarding Nicaro, Cuba, nickel mill contracts.

May, 1956—Murray H. Chotner, California campaign manager for Nixon and Knowland, questioned by Senate on his activities for airline and clothing manufacturer clients.

June, 1956—Robert B. MacLeish resigns as Farmers Home Administrator after charges of personal misconduct.

July, 1956—Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing uses government autos and planes on Mexico hunting trip.

January, 1957—Asst. Secy. of Defense Robert Tripp Ross resigns after Army contract award to his wife's firm.

February, 1958—Texas GOP committeeman Jack Porter sells $100-a-plate dinner tickets to honor House Republican Joe Martin, whose influence was said to be vital in securing passage of natural gas bill.

February, 1958—Chairman John C. Doerfer and three other Federal Communications Commissioners challenged on government expense accounts after being entertained by broadcasters.

Did Not Deny Charges, Priest Tells Newsmen

HONG KONG (AP)—A haggard American priest just out of five years in a Communist China prison said today he did not deny charges against him.

But a fellow priest said his companion was sick and made denials for them both.

The Rev. Joseph P. McCormack, 65, and the Rev. Cyril P. Wagner, 51, were moved almost to tears by the greetings of fellow Catholics when they reached Hong Kong. Both looked worn and older than their years.

Says Trial Ridiculous
At a news conference shortly after they landed, white-faced Father Wagner of Pittsburgh and Chicago said he did not deny the Communist charges. "I did deal in black market currency," he said.

Father McCormack of the Maryknoll Seminary in Ossining, N. Y., interrupted him and put his arms around the younger priest's shoulders.

"This man has been sick for five years," he told newsmen. "I deny the charges" against Father Wagner, he said. "My trial and the trial of Father Wagner were ridiculous."

In announcing their release last Saturday, Peiping radio said Father Wagner was jailed "for espionage." The broadcast said Father McCormack was imprisoned on charges of collecting Chinese political and economic information "under the cover of being a priest."

Close to Tears
Father Wagner said, "I feel my sentence was a little long. I believe 2½ years would have been a more fair sentence."

Both priests were visibly moved and seemed close to tears as they shook hands with Catholic officials who welcomed them.

They appeared to be in only fair health at best, although they reported by telephone from Shanghai earlier that they were in good health.

The two were released last Saturday after spending exactly five years in Red prisons. Their release left four Americans in Red Chinese cells, two businessmen and two civilian employees of the U. S. Army.

Dag Is on Way For Cairo Talks
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Dag Hammarskjöld left today to look into a couple of other Middle East hot spots after apparently failing to make any headway toward ending the six-week-old Lebanese rebellion.

As he flew to Israel after two days of talks, a bomb exploded only a few yards from the presidential palace, another of the hundreds of bombs hurled by terrorists since the rebellion began.

The U. N. secretary general was scheduled to visit Jerusalem and the Jordanian capital of Amman on the way to Cairo, capital of the United Arab Republic, which Beirut officials charge with supporting the rebels trying to overthrow Lebanon's pro-Western government.

Jordanian officials said Hammarskjöld would meet King Hussein and Premier Samir El Rifai in Amman. U. N. headquarters in New York announced the secretary general would discuss Mt. Scopus, an Israeli enclave in Jordanian territory near Jerusalem where a Canadian U. N. truce official was killed in a clash May 26.

The U. N. announcement said one topic for discussion in Cairo would be the U. N. Emergency Force which has been separating Egyptian and Israeli troops since their 1956 war.

But another subject of Cairo talks was expected to be Lebanese violence. President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon has accused the U. A. R. of sending in from its neighboring Syrian province arms and troops to aid the rebels.

Hammarskjöld is scheduled to return to Beirut Monday or Tuesday and fly back to New York Wednesday.

Killed in Mishap
LINDLEY, N. Y. (AP)—Vora Miller, 73, was killed today when his automobile ran off a bridge and into a creek near his home in this community five miles south of Corning.

Nixon Cautions

the chairman split on the Adams issue when their views were sought by reporters.

Meanwhile, Rep. Richard M. Simpson, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, said the Adams controversy "can only be harmful" to the GOP at the ballot box this year.

New Calls for Ouster
New calls for Adams to quit came Friday from Republican congressional ranks. One such call was voiced by Sen. Arthur V. Watkins of Utah, who won Eisenhower's praise in 1954 for the job Watkins did as chairman of a committee that recommended censure of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark) announced that Goldfine has agreed to appear July 1, with records, before Harris' House subcommittee that touched off the Adams incident. The subcommittee was being investigating alleged pressures on federal regulatory agencies.

Adams has told the subcommittee he accepted favors from Goldfine as an old friend and also contacted two federal agencies about cases involving Goldfine. Adams acknowledged imprudence but said he never sought to swing agency decisions in favor of Goldfine.

On the other side of the political fence, the strongly Democratic New York Post, anti-Eisenhower in both elections, struck a sorrowful note.

Adams on Limb
"The fact is," said the Post, "that Adams is out on a limb. Even though the President has expressed unshaken confidence in him, it is unlikely that Adams can get down without jumping from the White House to political anonymity. The melancholy truth is that the prestige of the President has suffered a most serious blow."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, anti-Eisenhower in both campaigns, said of Adams: "We think his usefulness to the President is ended, and that the President makes a serious mistake, after adopting such a high moral tone on governmental ethics, to condone his assistant's conduct."

The Washington Evening Star, which gave Eisenhower no campaign support, said: "If Mr. Adams keeps his office a certain sanction will have been given to a double standard of ethics, and it is perfectly obvious that Mr. Adams will be a major political liability to the administration."

One of the most strongly-worded of editorial comments was that of the Republican New York Herald-Tribune. The newspaper, pro-Eisenhower in both elections, said: "No leader since Washington has had such universal respect and admiration (as Eisenhower) for five years, Sherman Adams has been the indispensable right arm of the President. He still is. The President wishes him to remain so. Accordingly, he should. The President and Mr. Adams can now get back to work."

Praise for Adams
The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, which supported Eisenhower both in 1952 and 1956, praised Adams extensively.

"He certainly should remain in government. Gov. Adams is a man of limitless energy and extraordinary ability. In these trying times such men are altogether too rare. A man of outstanding genius, such high moral standards and such boundless integrity should not be lost to the government because of one guileless indiscretion."

A number of newspapers took the attitude that Adams' continued presence in the government may have to be reconsidered in the light of coming political developments.

Expressing the editorial feelings of the Hearst newspapers, which supported Eisenhower in both elections, the New York Journal-American said: "The issue has not been resolved by the White House announcement that Mr. Adams will continue in his job. Such an affirmation, admirable as it may be, does not answer the question. It will be answered by political realities which will have to be faced and weighed by the President and Mr. Adams, and by Mr. Adams in his conscience, in the days to come."

Fears GOP Tarring
The pro-Eisenhower San Francisco Chronicle said in part: "The popular discovery that the GOP's most outspoken idealist of purity in office has feet of clay and a coat of vicuna will have measurable political effects at the polls in November. We fear that the GOP is about to be tarred by the same brush that it used so forcefully to daub the Democrats in 1952 for their 'mess in Washington.'"

The New York Times took a broad view of the situation, criticizing Adams without calling for his ouster. The Times, which has supported Eisenhower, commented:

"Mr. Adams certainly has shown himself to be guilty, as he suggests, of bad judgment — of extraordinarily bad judgment on the part of so experienced and incorruptible a public servant as he unquestionably is."

One major objective of the change will be to encourage poor state and inefficient collective farms to do better by giving them new incentives and cutting down the profits of efficient farms on rich land.

The farms that have had to scrape along just meeting their low-price compulsory deliveries will now get more money from raised prices. The rich farms that have been able to sell their compulsory deliveries at the higher open market price will get less from the lower single price.

U.S. Presses Russia for Release of 9

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, apparently balking at further dealings with Communist East Germany, is pressing Russia to take immediate action toward freeing nine U. S. military men held by the German Reds.

The nine were grabbed by the East Germans when their helicopter went off its course and ran out of gas during bad weather two weeks ago today.

The State Department asked Moscow Friday night to have Soviet military authorities in East Germany act immediately to have the men released.

Russia, in what was regarded as a maneuver to force direct dealing between this country and East Germany, which the United States doesn't recognize, has argued it has no control over its German satellite.

Robert Murphy, deputy under-secretary of state, asked that steps be taken toward freeing the nine men under agreements made at the end of World War II by the allied powers occupying Germany for the handling of military personnel in each other's territory.

Summer Outlook
ter. So says the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

As recently as April, the bureau states, job offers for college grads were running 50 to 75 per cent below a year ago.

Not All Placed
Here's how the situation stacks up now: last year, nearly every engineering college and technical school polled by Northwestern had all available bachelors of science placed by June 1. This year a little over half of the science schools report 90 per cent of their available men placed by commencement time. Nearly all of the remainder forecast complete or nearly complete placements of their engineers by autumn.

Briefly over the business scene: General Foods Corp. announced another reduction in wholesale coffee prices. Estimated free losses in the United States, during May, amounted to $85,633,000 — a gain of 1.3 per cent over the same month last year. Corporations issuing public reports paid out 303 million dollars to their stockholders in cash dividends last month, or about the same amount as in May 1957.

Operating Results
Following are the operating results in two major lines of business and finance in the latest week, with comparisons with the preceding week and a year ago.

Stocks (Shares) 13,732,147 latest week; 13,205,380 previous week; 10,902,995 a year ago.

Bond sales (par value) $26,647,000 latest week; $27,753,500 previous week; $24,130,500 a year ago.

Country Clubs' Strongbox Taken
A metal strongbox was whisked out of the office of the Woodstock Country Club some time Thursday night by thieves who smashed a pane of glass and unlocked the front door.

The box reportedly contained $103 in assorted bills and a check for $25.

Kingston state police reported that the box was partly hidden on top of a desk in the office.

Nothing else was apparently touched. The cash register had been left open when the club was closed Thursday evening.

There was also a break at the Caiso Service Station, Quarryville, some time Wednesday night, with the loss of an estimated $83.22, part of which belonged to the Trailways Bus Co.

Approximately $27.22 in silver was taken from the cash register and $56 in assorted bills and silver coins.

The building was entered by breaking a rear window and unlatching it.

New Price System Somewhat Vague After Long Talk
By HAROLD K. MILKS

MOSCOW (AP)—A new pricing system for Russian agriculture will produce more to eat without raising consumer prices, premier Khrushchev promised today.

Khrushchev's latest plans for changing the farm system established under Stalin was published after the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee had outlined changes Friday.

But the premier-party boss' speech to the committee last Tuesday as published in morning newspapers still left some important points vague even though he talked the length of a small novel.

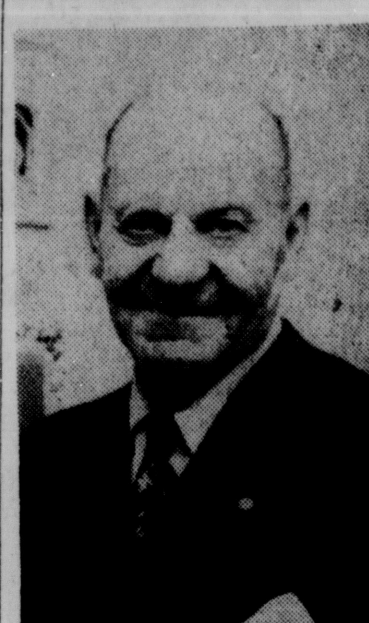

Khrushchev said beginning at an unspecified date food from collective farms will be sold to the state at a simple price, somewhat below the fixed low now paid for compulsory deliveries and the high on the open market for surpluses. The new plan abolishes compulsory deliveries while requiring that "all quotas to the state must be maintained."

This won't mean, however, that consumers will have to pay any more, Khrushchev said.

One major objective of the change will be to encourage poor state and inefficient collective farms to do better by giving them new incentives and cutting down the profits of efficient farms on rich land.

The farms that have had to scrape along just meeting their low-price compulsory deliveries will now get more money from raised prices. The rich farms that have been able to sell their compulsory deliveries at the higher open market price will get less from the lower single price.

Holy Name Cites 27-Year Member For His Service

GUSTAV KOHEL

A man converted to Catholicism 37 years ago, Gustav Kogel, was given an Honorary Degree of Service at a testimonial dinner Thursday by 100 members of St. Mary's Church Holy Name Society.

Speakers cited him for his church interest and promotion of the society since he joined it after his baptism in 1921 by an assistant pastor at St. Mary's, the Rev. Stephen P. Connelly now a right reverend monsignor, pastor of St. Joseph's Church here.

First Honor of Kind
The testimonial was the first ever given a layman of the parish singled out for his long devotion to the work of the Catholic church and helpfulness to his fellowmen.

City Historian Joseph F. Sullivan, toastmaster of the dinner held at Tommy's Restaurant, High Street, reviewed the life of "Gus" Kogel, and introduced others who praised his church work.

Both have served the Holy Name as officers. Mr. Kogel, a past president, has been treasurer for many years. They are also brothers in Kingston Council 275, Knights of Columbus, of which Mr. Sullivan is a past grand knight.

For more than 30 years Mr. Kogel has been a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, and has been on duty for all six Masses almost every Sunday, and for other occasions when he could be of service to the church.

He has made 35 annual pilgrimages to St. Anne's Shrine, Quebec, Canada and is one of the founders and charter members of St. Anne's Aides, a group devoted to attending the thousands of sick who seek cures at the shrine. Members come from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Retired Rail Engineer
A member, who served as president and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Mr. Kogel was employed on the West Shore Railroad for 49 years. He retired in 1952.

Mr. Kogel was born on March 22, 1882 in Brooklyn. He came to Kingston in 1905, and in 1910 married Miss Mary Quigley in St. Melchior's Church, New York City.

At the dinner messages of congratulations were read by the Rev. Edward J. Farrelly, moderator of the Holy Name. They came from Brother Fidele, a friend of more than 50 years, sacristan at the Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, and the Rev. Eugene Lefebvre, CSSR, director of pilgrims.

Father Lefebvre sent a document enrolling Mr. Kogel as a benefactor of the shrine and bestowing all its privileges upon him.

Speaking for the many personal friends of the guest of honor, F. Daniel Halloran said as he conferred the Honorary Degree of Service—"He has always sought to serve."

Dedicated to God
"His life is an open book, 'Dedication to God,'" were the words of his pastor, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, PA, VF. "Although 'Gus' only became a Catholic in his middle years, he gave an example of devotion to God and service to his fellowmen for all to follow."

President James P. Long of the Holy Name Society presented Mr. Kogel with an engraved clock and a purse on behalf of all the members of the Society.

Expressing his appreciation, Mr. Kogel said, "I give my heartfelt thanks to all. I love St. Mary's, its services and its people. I thank God for the opportunities he has given me to serve Him."

He gave a historical sketch of St. Anne's Shrine founded 300 years ago in 1658.

Movies were shown in color of activities of the Holy Name Society taken about 25 years ago. Theodore Wood and Donald Hastings were co-chairmen of the dinner, assisted by officers of the society and many of the members who served on the committee.

To Dedicate West Park Home Building June 26

A new cottage for young children will be blessed and dedicated by the Most Rev. Philip J. Furlong, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, at the Sacred Heart Home, Catholic child-caring institution in West Park, Thursday, June 26, at 3 p. m. The cost of the new building, including furnishings and equipment, was approximately $270,000. Extensive remodeling of existing facilities has also been completed.

These renovations add the new cottage represent a total investment of half a million dollars.

Located on a hill overlooking the Hudson River, the new cottage houses 30 children from two to seven years of age. It includes three complete units each providing living quarters and play facilities for 10 preschool and young school-age girls and their groupmother. In addition there are two dining rooms, a fully equipped kitchen, a large room for active indoor play and a family-style living room.

Remodeling includes the conversion of dormitories for the 7 to 14 year old girls into living quarters, divided into units each with its own bedrooms and living room and spacious enough to accommodate 20 girls, grouped according to age, and a groupmother. Gordon S. Marvel of Newburgh was the architect and Nauss & Nuzzo, Inc., also of Newburgh, were the general contractors.

The Sacred Heart Home, established in 1890 by St. Francis Xavier Cabrini, America's first citizen-saint, is conducted by the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart and is one of the 39 child-caring institutions and agencies of the Archdiocese coordinated under New York Catholic Charities. It houses and educates 150 dependent girls ranging in age from two to 14 years of age. Mother M. Aurelia is superintendent.

Nuclear War Seen Destroying 40 PC Of United States
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nuclear war wouldn't destroy the United States—just 40 per cent of it.

And the only way 60 per cent of the population could survive, a group of Air Force researchers forecast Friday, is for the United States not to lose that radioactive battle, but rather reach a "negotiated draw."

Should that stalemate be accomplished, said Herman Kahn, chairman of a 20-man research team at the Rand Corp. of Santa Monica, the United States could restore its survivors to very nearly their accustomed standard of living within 10 years.

Kahn addressed the closing session of a two-day symposium on modern warfare at the Hunters Point Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory.

The 20-man study, an admittedly "quick job" done in three months, assumed that all 53 major manufacturing areas in the United States would be wiped out by an enemy thermonuclear attack.

But the 60 per cent of the population living outside these centers and the 55 per cent of national wealth elsewhere would remain.

In fact, Kahn said, even if the hundred largest U. S. cities were destroyed "there would still be more wealth left in America than in all of Russia."

However, of the 40 per cent who might survive nuclear war, many would be stricken with fatal bone cancer and leukemia and those at the point where a bomb hit would be beyond protection, even though "medical science can handle the effects of all known atomic elements."

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

Author of "Children Are People" and "Etiquette," etc.

SHOULD THEY RISE?

Dear Mrs. Post: Another young man and myself have just recently returned from a week's vacation which we spent at a resort hotel. When we arrived the headwaiter seated us at a table with two young women who were strangers to us. We kept this same table for the whole week. The dinner hour was from six to seven. We always got to the dining room promptly but the two young women usually came in when we were part way through with our meal. I would like to know if it was necessary for us to rise when they came to the table, and also if we should have helped seat them?

Answer: If you exchanged any words with them, even a simple good morning, you should have risen when the young women came to the table. You need not, however, have helped seat them.

The Use of Opera Glasses
Dear Mrs. Post: A friend and I have differed on the correct use of opera glasses. I think it correct to use them to look about the theatre or concert hall to locate friends as well as known people who happen to be in the audience. My friend insists that they should be used only after the house lights are out, to observe the play, or program, in progress. Please set us straight on this matter.

Answer: You are right. You may use opera glasses to look for friends in the audience as well as to see the actors more closely.

Table Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: I have two questions on which I would like your help. (1) When passing your plate to the hostess for a second helping, do you leave your silver on the plate? (2) What is the proper way to remove a bit of grizzle or a tough piece of meat from the mouth?

Answer: (1) You leave the knife and fork on the plate, putting them well in from the edge so that they will not slide off. (2) You remove something unedible from your mouth between thumb and first two fingers, with thumb underneath.

Evidence Backfires

NEW YORK (AP)—"Jane Eyre", one of the costliest ventures in Broadway annals, ran into unexpected expense and a new dispute while trying to settle a previous controversy. The sponsors of the production which has cost an estimated half million dollars, have a suit pending before Actors Equity Assn., because Errol Flynn withdrew as the star. As part of the evidence, a recording was made of one performance. The tape backfired when Equity said its regulations require the cast receive a full week's pay for the record. The claim is being opposed on the grounds it was made specifically for evidence.

Cork Is Useful For Furniture And Panelling

Cork is a wonder-working material whether it's used to top a diningroom table, cover a bench, or panel a wall.

Its rough texture conceals nailheads and covers up even the most "all-thumbs" type of "Sunday carpentry." Rudi Mattoni, who was busy studying for his doctor's degree at UCLA, still found time to make convertible furniture by using cork and quick-to-assemble methods.

For instance, he designed a sleek cocktail table that has extension legs which quickly elevate it to a conventional height dining-room table.

Its black, wrought iron frame, 30x60 inches, contains a recessed ledge where the table top can be fitted in. The legs are 3/4-inch square tubing, while the extensions are 3/8-inch and easily slide over them.

The top, fashioned from cork, plywood, and casein glue, is made for sturdy wear. First, the wood was coated in glue, and then, the cork slowly rolled on. Once it was pressed free of air bubbles, the cork was trimmed flush to the wood.

Next, it was sprayed with white lacquer undercoating to provide the top with a chalky, dull finish. The final texture can be controlled by the number of coats applied. Mattoni sealed up the pores in the cork by spraying it with 10 coats. If you prefer the natural texture, however, omit the paint and coat the cork with sanding lacquer sealer.

Honey, used in cookies, often adds a chewy quality.

The 'Stone' ... An Attractive Ranch Style

Rooms ..... Six
Bedrooms ..... Two
Closets ..... Seven
Cubage ..... 22,000
Dimensions ..... 46' x 25'

Overall dimensions of "The Stone" are 46' x 25'; cubage is 22,000 feet. If you want either a detached or attached garage, it is easy enough to have one constructed by making arrangements with your contractor before actual building begins. However, if you have a garage built, or plan to have one sometime in the future, you'll need a lot larger than the 70 foot one which could easily accommodate "The Stone" by itself.

Shutters can be used advantageously to dress up the exterior of "The Stone." If you use white shingles or clapboards for the exterior finish of this charmingly modern home, colored blinds will add just the right touch of brightness to the house exterior.

Multi-colored roofing can also be used to give a touch of brightness to the exterior of "The Stone." Low bushes and flowering plants make the most attractive border plantings; simple landscaping is best. To make the front entrance more attractive you can plant rambling roses or any flowers that climb, so they will grow up the trellis work at the left of the front door.

Long Closet
In the entry hall, which leads from the front door to the living room, there is an unusually long coat closet that can easily hold guests' hats, coats, etc. In addition to all your family's stormy weather equipment.

Measuring 18'x8' 14", the living room actually is a connecting link with the rest of the rooms in "The Stone."

In the front wall, the handsome picture window, flanked by casement windows, looks out on the flowering plants in the plant box and the well-cared-for front lawn. Try to so place your house that you'll also be able to reap full benefits, through these windows, of whatever view may be available.

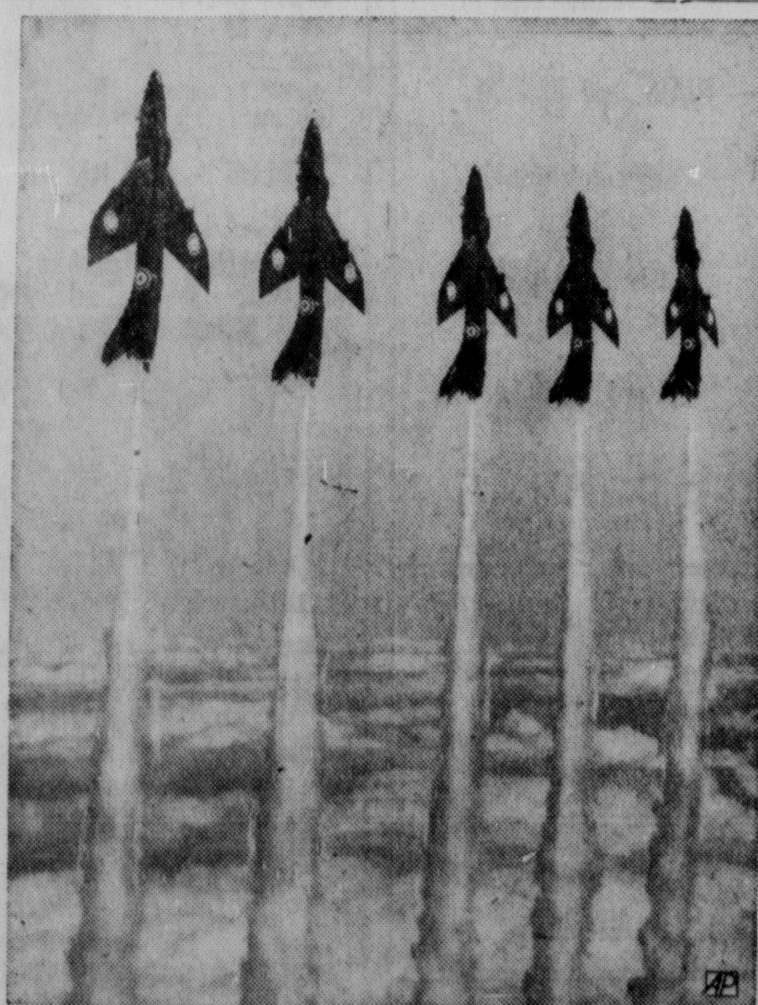

If you so desire, bookshelves could be built in along the back wall from the massive fireplace to the right wall of the living room. Or, if you prefer, bookshelves can be built along the left wall of the room.

One window in the front wall and another in the right wall provide good lighting and cross ventilation in the 10'6" x 10' dining room. China cabinets built into both the front and back right corners of the room provide ample storage space in which the lady of the house can keep her fine china and glassware.

Breakfast Nook
Connected directly with the dining room, the kitchen contains a spacious breakfast nook and a large broom closet as well as plenty of handy working counters, cupboards and cabinets, arranged in a U-shaped array along

A Proper Thinner
Shellac is a basic, natural commodity which has a wide variety of uses. It's also easy to apply. But many persons needlessly invite trouble by applying it full strength. You're wasting money and creating problems for yourself by doing this. For virtually all work, shellac should be thinned with a high quality denatured alcohol. Don't use anti-freeze as a thinner.

Priesthood Report
TOKYO (AP)—Reports indicate that proportionately, more Japanese Roman Catholics enter training for the priesthood than in any other country. For every 100,000 Catholics in Japan, there were 93 major seminarians. Ireland was second with 75.

HIGH ALIGNMENT—Five jet planes of the RAF aerobatic team trail vapor above clouds as they complete a maneuver in display of aerial wizardry over eastern England.

the left, back and right walls. The sink is centered in the line of working counters, under the window in the back wall.

The bedrooms and bath cannot be reached directly from the kitchen of "The Stone;" it is necessary to go through the living room to get to any of these rooms.

Measuring 11'x10'6", the den or bedroom has two large windows in the back wall and a good sized closet in the right wall. This room can serve either purpose with equal ease and, if you so desire, can be used as a guest room.

Modernly equipped with both a tub and a shower, the bathroom receives ample light and ventilation from the one window in its back wall. This room also boasts a large closet in its right wall—a closet that can be used as a storage space for clean towels and also for bathroom cleaning equipment.

Across the central hall is the unusually large linen closet which can accommodate a good supply of clean bed linen, etc. And without too much pondering any housewife will be able to find good use for the extra closet also opening on the central hall, just to the right of the door to the back bedroom.

Good lighting and cross ventilation are assured in the back bedroom, for there is one window in the back wall and another in the left wall. There also is a large storage closet in this 12'x 11'4" bedroom which is designed to be used as the master bedroom. The long unbroken front wall will facilitate arrangement of large furniture pieces.

Windows in both left and front walls insure good light and cross ventilation for the occupant of the front bedroom. This 11'6" x 11'4" bedroom also boasts a generous-size closet.

Put the heating equipment under the living room in the full cement basement recommended for "The Stone." The laundry can be installed under the kitchen. The use to which you put the remaining basement area is up to you, but be sure to provide sufficient bulkheads for the sake of convenience and safety in going from the basement to the yard—and vice versa.

Blueprints Available
Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. KF, 87 Webster Street, Providence, R. I.

New Device Used To Dust Household

For easier household dusting take the dust mop, break it in two but don't throw it away. Instead cover each end with a new device and screw tight.

The device locks the mop into four different angles for cleaning in hard-to-get-at places. A quick upward pull straightens the mop handle.

No Use for Knives

Along the Street of Knifemakers in Madrid, Spain, the restaurateurs don't use knives. They cook their meats until it is so tender that the waiters use the side of a plate to carve your roast sucking pig and other meats.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurter, county director Veteran's Service Agency, and the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs, submits another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and other dependents.

Korean Vets—Veterans of the Korean conflict may be eligible for federal benefits under the unemployment compensation program for veterans set up by the Korean GI Bill. Benefits are payable until July 26, 1958 or until three years after a veteran's discharge, whichever is the later. Payments are made at the rate of $26 a week for a maximum of 26 weeks. Although this is a federal benefit, applicants for it must meet the eligibility rules under the law of the State. Veterans who have exhausted their state unemployment insurance benefits might receive immediate benefit from this federal program for veterans.

Bonus—July 1, 1958 is the last date that New Hampshire veterans with service in either WW II or the Korean conflict may file for the state's veteran bonus. The bonus pays $10 a month with a maximum of $100 for service between December 7, 1941 and December 31, 1946 or June 25, 1950 and July 27, 1953. An applicant must have been a resident of the state at time of entry upon active duty to qualify. Application forms may be obtained from the Adjutant General, State of New Hampshire, Concord, New Hampshire.

Social Security—June 30, 1958 is the final date for disabled persons to apply for the disability freeze protection under the US Social Security laws. The disability freeze protection enables the Social Security Administration to go back to the actual date of a person's disability to start the actual count of years of work. Persons who do not file before June 30 to have their social security records frozen may lose their rights to social security disability payments at age 50. Moreover, their rights to old age and survivors insurance payments for themselves and their families may be adversely affected. Anyone who becomes disabled and unable to work may have a gap in his social security earnings record which would cause his social security benefits when payable to be reduced or completely lost. By applying to the Social Security Administration to have his records frozen, the gap in his earnings records may not count against him in computing his benefits under the social security program. Applicants who do not file until after June 30 may only have their time counted back one year, and, therefore, would not have sufficient work time to qualify them for social security disability protection.

Statistics—Over $431.8 million in cash benefits and services was distributed during the 1957 fiscal year to veterans and their families in New York State. There were 276,194 living veterans who received compensation or pension, 73,214 dependents of deceased veterans receiving death compensation and pension, 43,232 veterans training under the WW2 and Korean GI Bills and 1,332 disabled veterans of WW2 and the Korean conflict in training under the Vocational Rehabilitation Program. Other cash benefits and services included the war orphans' educational assistance allowances, hospitalizations, automobiles and wheel chair homes for the disabled and GI insurance and indemnity payments.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office located at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Air Conditioning, Heating Improved By Louver Doors

Installing louver doors between rooms and on closets is an idea worth some serious consideration, whether you are building a house, remodeling or simply redecorating inside.

Louver doors, with their tilted slats, offer at least three special advantages to home-owners:

1. Air conditioning is more efficient with louver doors of ponderosa pine, since the cooled air circulates more readily from room to room. Temperatures are more even. The same advantage holds true with winter heating.

2. The "textured" appearance of the louvers adds interest to any decorating scheme, giving it warmth and charm. The clear ponderosa pine can be painted or stained to fit in with traditional, modern, or contemporary interiors.

3. The tilted slats, which shut out light but let air circulate freely, are a boon to closets and storage areas. The movement of air prevents musty odors and deters moths.

Louver doors of ponderosa pine are available from building materials dealers in standard styles.

A Prying Tip

Care in prying the lid off a can of paint pays off. If you do it carefully by moving the screwdriver around the circumference without bending the edge of the lid, you can seal the can tightly again after finishing your paint job.

Easy To Obtain Effect Of Pickled Pine Finish

One way to obtain a pickled pine finish that imitates the stained effect of weathered wood in vinegar and pickling vats consists of bleaching the pine and then staining it gray. When the stain has dried, apply a coat of clear shellac. This should be followed with a white glaze which is wiped off in the direction of the grain, leaving light streaks. Another coat of white shellac is then applied, followed by a final coating of wax. When an aged effect is desired rottenstone can be mixed with the wax.

An average of 3,000 prisoners are paroled from jail to the Salvation Army each year.

Quiet Electric Wall Switches

Many home builders are featuring the latest in colorful, quiet electric wall switches.

Available for use in all rooms, it features a transparent, concave-shaped plexiglas cover in which a single actuator button is located. Inserts in four basic colors are provided which may be mounted behind the cover to match or contrast with existing wall colors. Or, if desired, inserts may be cut from matching wallpaper.

The switches can be installed on normal house current without special wiring. Positive and safe conditions are assured, and the switching mechanism is sealed against dust and dirt. The actuator button requires but a gentle tap to turn light on and off. Even the elbow can be used if the hands are full.

Erie RR Urges PSC Approval of Reduced Service

NEW YORK (AP) — The Erie Railroad Co. has appealed to the Public Service Commission to cut service in off-commuter hours and on holidays and weekends.

The road contended Friday the cut was necessary to sustain losses it claims from its suburban operations. The company said it was losing more than 2½ million dollars a year on suburban operations despite attempts to reduce expenses.

Under the plan submitted by the company to Harold M. Holmsted, PSC hearing examiner, the railroad would maintain commuter service on three trains to New York daily and three trains from New York.

It would eliminate 11 trains from weekday service during non-commuter hours and 46 from holiday and weekend service. The proposal would affect 15 stations in New York State between Suffern and Port Jervis.

James W. Conway, assistant superintendent of the railroad's New York division, said similar action was pending before New Jersey's Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

No Waiting List For Enlistments In Army: Gosling

There is no waiting list for qualified young men who desire to enlist in the United States Army on or before June 30, it was announced by M/Sgt. Gosling, area Army Recruiter. Branches now open for immediate enlistment include: Armor, Medics, Engineers, Infantry, Artillery, Military Police and Airborne.

Of special interest, Sgt. Gosling added, is that men enlisting for the Airborne branch will receive extra pay as a paratrooper, which, together with the rapid promotions authorized by present regulations, should, in eight months' time, give the enlistee the expectation of $159.17 monthly pay besides the regular food, initial clothing, lodging and medical services. These "free" benefits are estimated at $200 monthly.

Young men who desire immediate active duty are urged to contact M/Sgt. Gosling at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 309 Wall Street.

New Lighting System Dedicated at Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — The giant Niagara Falls have a new attraction—a 4,200,000-candlepower lighting system.

Officials from Canada and the United States dedicated the new system Friday night.

The $153,000 series of searchlights more than triples the lighting at the cataract. Lt. Gov. George B. DeLuca of New York State and Charles Daley, Ontario minister of labor and chairman of the Niagara Parks Commission, officiated at the dedication.

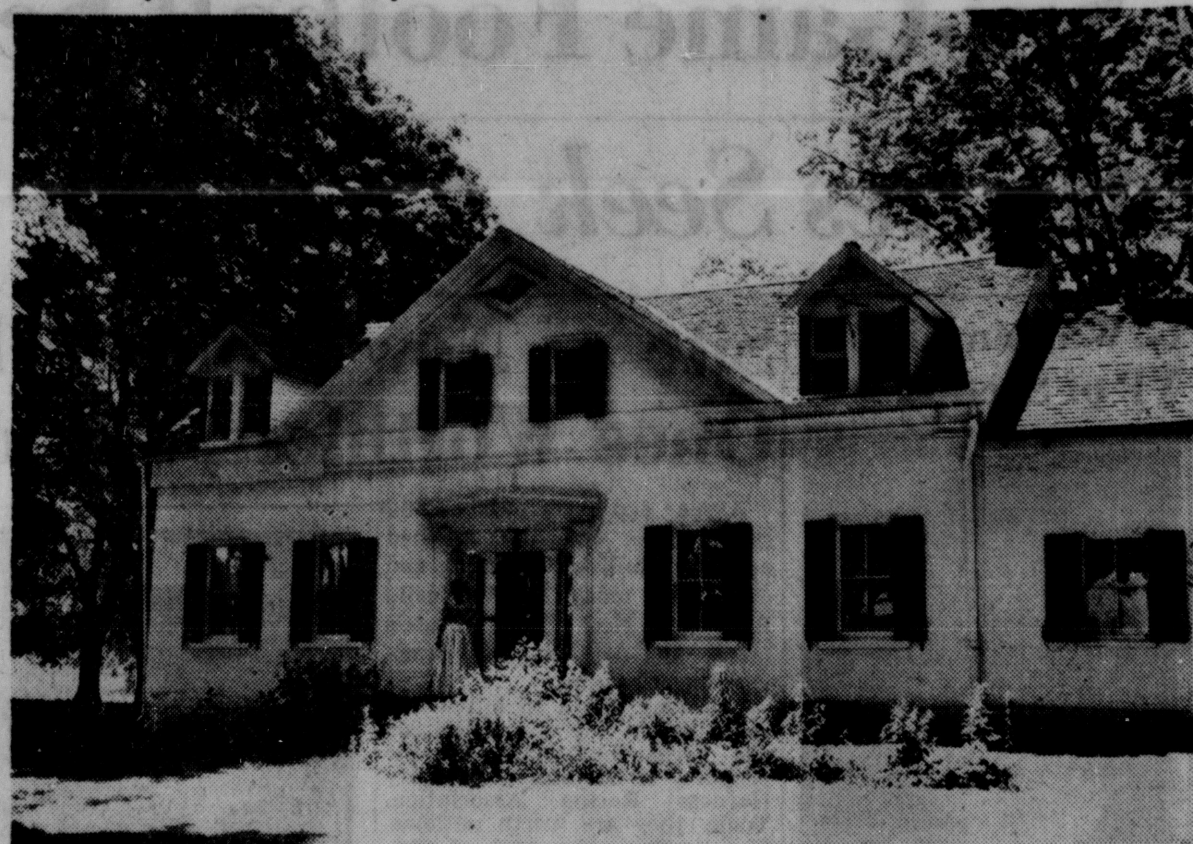

They praised the cooperation of the two countries that made the project possible.

Cost of the system was borne jointly by the United States and Canada.

Prevent Falls

Winter ice and snow can take their toll on the sidewalks around the home. A judicious sprinkling of rock salt or sand on icy sidewalks and steps can prevent painful injuries and possible lawsuits from serious falls. A galvanized steel coal hod filled with sand or rock salt may be placed near the back door for immediate use on icy mornings.

Ready for Hurley's Annual Stone House Day July 12

ONE OF THE OLDEST HOUSES IN HURLEY—For the first time, the Brink house, Mountain Road, will be included in the annual tour of pre-Revolutionary houses in Hurley on July 12. The date, 1661, appearing on the gable was the date when the land on which the house stands was leased from King Charles II to Lambert Hybertse who came to America in 1659. After the territory passed into the hands of the English, in 1708 Queen Ann deeded all the land to the colonists who had settled it and ordered that the Dutch who had not taken a family name do so. Hybertse took the name of "Brink." The homestead has remained in the same family for nine generations and is now owned by Alton Dietz and his wife Sarah Brink Dietz. In 1842, a brick addition was attached to the original house. The original stone walls can still be seen at the north end however. On July 12, buses will leave Hurley Reformed Church starting at 12:30 p. m. at half hour intervals to visit Houghtaling House, and DeWitt House as well as the Brink homestead.

COLONIAL HOSTESSES—Ready to greet guests at the annual Old Stone House Day in Hurley are Mrs. William E. Gaffken and Mrs. Christopher Morris. The tour, sponsored by Hurley Dutch Reformed Church, will include the Ten Eyck house, the stairway of which is pictured here. The house was built in 1780 by Dr. Richard TenEyck and was used as a stop on the underground railway in pre-Civil War days, for slaves fleeing to freedom in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Gaffken now own the home. Tours of the 11 houses open to the public this year will start from the church beginning at 11 a. m. until 5 p. m. (Freeman photos).

Hurley Houses of History Outlined in New Brochure

The Town of Hurley, steeped in early Colonial history, has issued the first of a series of three annual publicity pamphlets which when completed will contain a complete illustrated record of "Hurley's Houses of History."

Old Hurley village, which boasts one of the fine collections of old stone houses in the country, was established in 1661 when a group of settlers petitioned Wiltwyck for a New Village along the fertile bottom lands bordering the Esopus creek three miles from what is now Kingston.

Still Standing Today The industrious citizens of Hurley after numerous setbacks constructed fine permanent stone homes and today practically all of the old Dutch stone houses still stand.

Again for the eighth year "Old Stone House Day" will be observed in Hurley Saturday, July 12, when pre-Colonial homes will be open for visitation. The tours will start from the Hurley Reformed Church from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. A cafeteria lunch will be served at 12:30 p. m. at the Hurley church. The annual event has attracted hundreds of visitors each year who come to accept the hospitality of those who now occupy the historic old stone houses.

This year the publicity pamphlet, which contains a summary of the early history of Hurley, interior and exterior pictures of a group of the old stone houses, was published through a contribution from the Town Board and citizens of the community. Next year the publication will contain another group of the old homes and at the end of three years there will be a complete record. These publications will form a valuable historical record of the old stone houses.

On the cover of the publication is shown the historic Jan Van Deusen house built in 1723 where the Council of Safety met after the city of Kingston was burned by the British in 1777. This house was used as the State Capitol for several months. It is now owned by Miss Ruth Waterbury.

Others Shown

Other houses pictured are the Houghtaling house, built in the late 1790's and now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest LeFever; the Ten Eyck house built in 1780 and owned by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gaffken. This house was a stop on the underground railway in pre-Civil War days for slaves fleeing to freedom in Canada.

The DuMond or Guard House, built in 1745 where the British spy Leiet Taylor was confined, tried and later hanged from an apple tree across the road, is also shown. George Kent now owns this house.

The Col. Gerardus Hardenbergh house, which stands on land originally granted by King George III in 1750, and which was the birthplace of Sojourner Truth, noted Negro evangelist, is now owned by Mrs. Lyman Schoonmaker. Also pictured is the John P. Elmendorf house built in the early 1790's, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin O. Feass Jr. Nieuw Dorp house built between 1730 and 1740 which boasts the original fireplace and mantle, is owned by Miss Nellie Elmendorf and her sister Mrs. Helen Anderson. The Abram Elmendorf house, built about 1780 is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Morris. Also depicted is the Matthew TenEyck house built around 1750 and occupied by the TenEyck family for over 150 years, is now owned by Dr. and Mrs. Davis S. Gerberg.

Notes Interesting Sites

In addition to the old stone houses illustrated, there is also contained in the booklet a map of the location of the old homes and other points of interest in the village. On the back cover is the Hurley Reformed Church "at the bend in the road." The original church built in 1801 was replaced in 1853 and stones from the original church were used in the retaining wall of the new cemetery. The original stone church was torn down in 1853 when cracks appeared in the walls and the building was found to be unsafe. Next to the church is the parsonage, the home of the Crispell family in 1790.

In addition to a historical sketch of the town there is also a review of the vacation and recreational facilities of the town and an insert listing the numerous vacation resorts and restaurants in the township. The folder is reportedly one of the most informative and attractive published by any township in the county.

Long-Run Concerto

NEW YORK (AP) — Pianist Josefa Rosanska has set a non-stop stint this summer with a single composition. A concert performer frequently with symphony orchestras, Miss Rosanska is to play Grieg's Piano Concerto nightly from June 20, to Sept. 1 in the Guy Lombardo production of "Song of Norway" at suburban Jones Beach Marine Theatre. The musical, based on the life of the Norwegian composer, stars Stephen Douglas, Brenda Lewis and Robert Rounseville.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — There's one bright spot in the otherwise dismal TV picture for summer. That's Sunday at 9.

Amid the welter of re-runs and cheap quiz shows comes a top-notch musicomedy cast to replace Dinah Shore on NBC. Dinah's program has been the most consistently entertaining one on TV during the cooler months. Her replacement shows promise of keeping up her high average.

John Raitt, Janet Blair and Eddie Adams will head the weekly roster, starting Sunday night. They'll have frequent assists from Rowan and Martin, Stan Freberg, Jonathan Winters and Dorothy Kirsten. Not bad for a summer show — huh?

It happens that the sponsor is selling cars faster than the other Detroiters, Raitt said in a pre-show chat. The firm naturally wants to keep up the pace with a top-drawer program. The singer added further reasoning on the expensive show:

1. Sponsor identification of Dinah's show is high, and they want to keep it that way.

2. The show attracts a preponderance of viewers in the intelligent, over-18 category, a prime market for new autos.

3. The Sunday-at-9 spot is ideal for summer viewing, since most folks will be indoors and home from weekend outings.

The 15-week stretch is the first time Raitt has taken on a regular show, and he's pleased that he has been accepted on his own terms.

"I'm not going to sing down to people — no rock 'n' roll or anything like that," he said. "Both Janet and Eddie have had serious vocal training, so we'll be able to do some good songs together."

"Among the songs I sing on concert dates are some that have seldom been heard on TV. Things like 'Song of the Open Road,' 'Green-Eyed Dragon' and so forth. Every few years, there is a singer who can do songs like that. In the past it has been Nelson Eddy, Al-han Jones, Tony Martin, etc. Now I'm going to try."

Raitt, who made a fine impression in opposition Mary Martin in "Annie Get Your Gun," has decided to cast his lot with TV for a while. He's lining up a number of musicals to present as spectacular. Also, he may appear with Bob Hope in "Roberta" if he can get permission from his auto sponsor to go on for another General Motors car.

Coast Guard Offers

Graduates New Program

The Coast Guard is now accepting applications from qualified college graduates between 21 and 26 years for the officer candidate school that will convene in October, it was announced today.

The October class will consist of two groups of applicants. One group will, upon completion of OCS, be ordered to six months active duty. This group will have a seven and a half year ready reserve obligation, consisting of weekly drills and two weeks annual active duty for training. The other group will be ordered to three years active duty. The six-month program permits the reserve officers to fulfill their military obligation to their home and with a minimum of time spent on active duty.

Squeezes Can Be Submarines

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Most squeezes will develop one trick only, so that any time you can count 11 winners and are looking for 12 it is up to you to lose a trick early in the play in order that the potential squeeze may operate.

Some years ago the late Walter Wyman called a particular form of this play the submarine squeeze and this hand by Sam Fry, winner of this year's Vanderbilt Cup, illustrates this play.

The jack of clubs is opened against your six no-trump contract and you count 11 winners, plus one possible extra trick in each red suit. You can make seven if both red suits break evenly, but you are one of those declarers who does not believe in Santa Claus so you look around for the best play for 12 tricks.

Where can you lose a trick quickly? In spades, of course! You submarine out with the four of spades and give away

Now it does not matter what the opponents do. You simply cash the rest of your black cards and on the lead for the third spade, East has to unguard one of the red suits. Now you have your 12 tricks.

Yacht Is Man O' War

To Save Dockage Fees

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The strangest man o' war in port has only one cannon—for shooting lines—and boasts a 12-man orchestra.

The owner, of course, is Lt. Gen. Rafael Trujillo, son of the strongman of the Dominican Republic. The white, four-masted yacht is the Angelita. She is 350 feet long, carries a crew of 80, and was built for the late U. S. Ambassador Joseph Davies.

She came into port Friday listed as a man o' war, thus missing $18.25-a-day dockage fees.

Trujillo said he plans to hold a party for his Hollywood friends aboard the Angelita before he leaves for home aboard the vessel.

Buffalo Fire Damage

$100,000, Three Hurt

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A fire that swept a three-story business building on Buffalo's East Side Friday night caused more than $100,000 damage. Three firemen were injured slightly.

Members of a nearby boys' club were evacuated as the flames raged in the brick structure at 72 Kingsley St. The building housed several small businesses, including a cleaning firm and a basket company.

Firemen said the fire started on the upper floors. The cause was not determined.

Fire Commissioner William Daly estimated the loss.

Onteora Central Opens Six-Game Football Schedule Sept. 20

UCAL Champs Meet Pawling In Inaugural

Onteora Central, UCAL's 1957 football champions, open a six-game schedule September 20 at Pawling Central. Minus nine varsity lettermen, Coach Ed Witko will put an eight-game win streak over a two year span against the Dutchess County squad.

Playing Pawling for the first time, the Indians will be built around five returning veterans, led by the rugged Bruce Wiederspiel and hard charging Bob Shulman.

The schedule:
Sept. 20—Pawling (A)
Sept. 27—Cornwall (A)
Oct. 4—open date
Oct. 11—Wallkill (H)
Oct. 18—Rondout (A)
Oct. 25—New Paltz (H)
Nov. 1—Marlboro (A)

May Book Red Hook
Coach Witko hopes to fill the open date with Red Hook Central, but he has had no official confirmation from the coaches there.

Several other schools are being sought, but it may be difficult to fill the date since most of the grid schedules have been completed.

There are several schools which have dates open, but it cannot be worked in to coincide with the Onteora vacancy. The Indians will open their schedule one week earlier than normal, something Coach Witko didn't want to do because it will cut the pre-season workouts. Under state law, a school is only permitted to workout three weeks before its season.

Sawyers Slated
A practice game is slated with Saugerties High for Sept. 17 on the Sawyers field.

Coach Witko is hopeful that some of his jayvees will fill the shoes of his departing griders, Norm Boggs, Artie Gribbins, Charlie Cange, Craig Bremer, Conrad King, Henry "the Tank" Rank, Dick Craig and Bob Myers.

Good Nucleus
Some of the boys, Coach Witko expects big things from are Gilbert Scheringer, a 6-7, 235 pound lineman, who could fill quite a gap on the left side of the line if he spruces up scholastically.

After one game last season, Scheringer was ruled ineligible because of low grades. Ivan Elgnor and George Thompson, a couple of 200-pound linemen, figure in Witko's plans. John Peterson and Duane Moore are big boys who can plug some of the holes that will be up for grabs on the line when training gets underway.

Witko is optimistic about his chances. He said more than 50 boys have registered for football and he hopes to put 48 of them into waiting uniforms when fall rolls around.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
Fishing Editor

A large percentage of the increase in catches among commercial fishermen is due to the echo sounder.

They began using the device in 1946, and there are now more than 8,000 in our commercial fleets. The echo sounder not only charts the ocean bottom but locates schools of fish. Sound travels through water at about 4,800 feet per second—a fact which makes the gadget accurate.

The principle of the echo sounder is the transmission of a continuous stream of impulses of sound from the bottom of the vessel. These sound waves branch out and send back "echoes" on striking the ocean bottom or any other solid object. The apparatus computes the time elapsed since the sound went out, transposes the time into distance, figures the obstacle's shape, size and relative density, and transfers all this information to a graph about the size of a small radio.

Vertical lines on rolls of paper moving through the box-like structure represent the ocean area in front of and below the vessel.

Horizontal lines indicate the depth of the water. The graph, properly translated, is a map of the entire ocean below and around the ship for hundreds of feet.

Two styluses are the mechanical means of transferring the impulses to the graph. They move over the paper in roughly parallel lines, the surface of the ocean being represented by the top line and the irregular ocean floor by the bottom.

Irregular markings, occurring singly or in bunches, occur between these lines. These represent fish.

The captain can tell from the nature of the markings the depth and range and general location of the fish, what type they are, whether it is a school or a single large fish.

Littler 'Darkhorse' of $52,000 Flint Tourney

By DAVE DILES

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Tommy Bolt is getting all the attention and Sam Snead made news by going home, but the golfer being talked about most by the golfers themselves in the $52,000 Flint Open is Gene Littler.

Although he has only one victory in the last two years, the little guy from Singing Hills, Calif., is rated as the real dark horse in the 72-hole Warwick Hills event at nearby Grand Blanc.

Littler, who won the San Diego Open as an amateur four years ago, is just two strokes off the pace in this one.

The second round Friday was washed out by a heavy downpour after about half the field had completed the 18th hole. Since PGA rules specify that all play must be wiped out under such circumstances, the field will play 18-hole rounds today and Sunday and windup with the final 18 Monday.

So the 89th posted by U. S. Open champ Tommy Bolt still stands for the lead, and Bill Casper Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., trails by one stroke.

Littler is tied with four others for third place.

Snead, who shot a 78 Thursday in the opening round, retired to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. He complained of chills and fever and said he thought he had a touch of pneumonia.

Bolt had a 73 Friday but the biggest victims of the washout were Masters champions Arnold Palmer, who set a course record of 67; Bert Weaver of Beaumont, Tex., who had a 68; and Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., who fired a 69. Par is 36-72.

Homers Jeer DeJohn Win Over Baker
SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—It's a rare occasion when a decision for a home town fighter gets a boomer from the fans.

But that's what happened at War Memorial Auditorium Friday night when ninth-ranked heavyweight contender Mike DeJohn of Syracuse was awarded a unanimous verdict over unranked Bob Baker of Pittsburgh in a television 10-rounder.

It didn't bother DeJohn too much, but it burned up his brother and manager, Johnny DeJohn.

"I beat him good and I think I won every time," sputtered Johnny, "ever since he knocked out Alex Miteff in the first round last October, they expect him to flatten everyone. He won, big tonight and got more experience going 10 rounds."

"I was satisfied to win the decision especially since I got that bad cut over the eye in the fourth round," said fighter Mike.

"I beat him good and I think I would knock him out if we fought again. The main thing is that I felt strong after going the 10. It was only the third time I've fought 10."

The officials all had DeJohn ahead by decisive margins. Referee Joe Palmer and Judge Dick Albino each had it 6-3 in rounds. Jimmy Harold McGrath scored it 7-3.

There was a loud dissent from Baker.

"I should have gotten a draw at least," he fumed.

Phil Versace Leads Eastern Bowling Play

Phil Versace of Poughkeepsie has taken the lead in the Eastern Open Bowling Championships at Mineola. The Bridge City ace who finished fourth in the State Proprietors match game play last weekend, won eight out of 12 games last night for a Petersen point total of 57.35 with 2.485.

Andy Carnase of New York City won 10 of his 12 games, but his pinfall was only 2,363 for a 57.13 point total and second place.

Morris Cramer, Albany, defending champion was in 13th place.

Wiederspiel Joins Yanks

Bruce Wiederspiel, hard-throwing Onteora Central right-hander, will be in the Kingston Yankees lineup tonight when they meet the Staatsburg Knickerbockers in Dietz Stadium for a New York-New Jersey contest.

Wiederspiel played first base and pitched two innings in Newburgh for Manager Sal Ciacco's town team last night and fared well. He was touched for three hits in the two innings he labored.

The husky all-around athlete at Onteora will be entering his senior year at the Boiceville school in September. Manager Ciacco was impressed with the youth and hopes to use him throughout the remainder of the league schedule.

Indians Big 5th Scalps Giants

The Indians came up with six runs in the fifth to trim the Giants 11-6 in Ulster Little League game last night.

A good bit of relief hurling by John Bream saved the Indians from further trouble in the fifth when the Giants scored five times. With the runs in and the bases jammed, Bream retired the side on strikes.

Paul Koepfen, the second Giant hurler gets the loss. Bill McGill started and lasted until the fifth when the roof fell in on both pitchers.

Bill Palen and Bryant Burroughs each had three hits for the Indians. Wayne Platte poked out a pair of safeties for the losing Giants.

The summaries:

Indians ..... 140 06X—11

Patty Berg Has One Stroke Lead In Western Open

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Defending champion Patty Berg carried a one stroke lead today in the third round of the 72-hole Women's Western Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Berg, who seeks her seventh Western Open title, posted a one under par 72, Friday after firing a 75 in the opening round. That gave her a 36-hole total of 147, one stroke better than Beverly Hansen of Indio, Calif.

In third place with 150s were Jackie Pung of Daly City, Calif., Kathy Cornelius of Lakeland, Fla., and young Wiffie Smith of St. Clair, Mich.

Short Pitches 20th Complete Game for Trips

Like their big brothers, the New York Yankees, the Binghamton Triplets find their greatest strength in pitching.

The New York farm club got its 20th complete game in the last 26 when southpaw Bill Short allowed Albany six hits as the Triplets defeated their fellow New York Staters 4-3 at home before 348 fans.

The other three games in the Eastern League were rained out. Short's nine-inning performance was the sixth complete game in a row for the Triplets who have stepped out to a seven and a half game lead over the second-place Springfield Giants in the northern division.

Short won his fifth game against three defeats. Howie Reed, knocked out in the first, lost his sixth game in eight decisions. Reliever Mike Schwartzkoff allowed four hits the rest of the way.

Services Monday For Jack Westrope

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Funeral services for veteran jockey Jack Westrope, 40, will be held Monday at Forest Lawn's Church of Recessional in nearby Glendale.

Westrope was fatally injured Thursday when his mount Well Away, bolted and threw him against the inner rail in the feature race at Hollywood Park.

An autopsy Friday disclosed he died from internal bleeding in the abdomen. There was scarcely a mark on his body, despite his fall.

Bunning Fans 14 Yankees As Tiger Whammy Prevails

Bill Norman, the new boss of the Detroit Tigers, talks a bit like Casey Stengel, manages a bit like Casey Stengel and wins a bit like Casey Stengel. He also happens to be 5-0 against Casey Stengel.

"Willie Card," as Norman calls himself (a nickname picked up long ago as an outfielder in the St. Louis Cardinals' farm system), rambles somewhat in conversation, but apparently the Tigers are hep to his live.

A dozen days ago the Tigers were in last place and Norman was a "who he?" guy managing Charleston in the American Assn. Now the 47-year-old Norman has an 8-2 record in the majors and the Tigers are a half-game shy of second place.

Bunning Fans 14

Playing to a home crowd of 53,168, they knocked off the American League-leading New York Yankees again Friday night, winning 7-1 with a pair of big innings, some fine pitching from Jim Bunning and a crushing pinch hit.

That's a perfect copy of the Stengel-Yankee pattern.

It also handed Stengel and the Yankees a six-game whipping from one club (the Tigers started the string under ex-Manager Jack Tighe) for the first time

Site of New Monticello Raceway Once Worthless, Skinned Acreage

A year ago berry patches and scrub trees hid the skinned acres of Sullivan County's red clay that today is Monticello Raceway, New York State's latest and last harness track with legal betting.

Not long ago a $5 bill would have bought any one of the 200 odd acres that make up the property of the Sullivan County Harness Racing Association. Today they are worth millions, five anyway, the cost of converting the land into a plant for pacers and trotters—and people.

The track opens Friday and runs until Sept. 20, 74 nights of racing, nine races every night but Sunday.

The eighth and last harness track license, allowable under the pari-mutuel statute of the state, was granted by Harness Racing Commissioner George P. Monaghan July 3, 1957 to Sullivan County association bringing to the country's most populous summer resort area the fastest growing spectator sport in America.

Commissioner Monaghan's approval of the new raceway application ended too, the "have not" status of the county as the only major vacation center on the Eastern Seaboard without a track site of any kind.

The raceway will cost about $5,000,000 and will accommodate 15,000 patrons, 3,925 with seats. The plant covers 200 acres. It will have parking space for 6,000 cars. The half-mile racing strip is 90 feet wide and the half mile practice track is 40 feet wide.

Twenty barns will accommodate 600 horses. The minimum purse will be $800 and the maximum $10,000 to the owner of the winner of the Monticello leg of the Trans-America, which will be run on August 15.

Penn Favorite To Win First Race Since 1900

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Pennsylvania hoped to make up for many bitter years in the Inter-collegiate Rowing Assn. championships by sweeping most of the silverware on Onondaga Lake today.

The Quakers haven't won the varsity title since 1900. The last time they won anything in this famed regatta was in 1924 when they captured the freshman and junior varsity championships.

They could take all three events, along with the Jim Teneyck Memorial Trophy that goes to the school scoring most points in the three races.

Joe Burke's varsity was rated a slight favorite over Cornell's defending Kingspins and Syracuse in the 10 crew three-mile feature.

Princeton's Huskies, California's sophomore-dominated eight, and Navy's improved Middies were expected to push the top three.

Hoot Newport Sets Mark at Vernon Downs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hoot Newport stepped to a new Vernon Downs track record for 4-year-old pacing mares Friday night by winning the featured mile pace in 2:00 1-5.

The time clipped 3-5 of a second off the mark set a year ago by Lively Hanover.

Driven by Del Cameron, the Newport Stock Farm star was a three-length victor over Bimbo Chief Can. He paid $2.70, $2.50 and $2.50 in scoring her sixth straight victory.

At Roosevelt Raceway, Meadow Maid won the $3,050 Devotion Pace by a half length over Trim Freight in 2:05 2-5.

The fleet 2-year-old pacing filly sired by Adios was bred, trained, driven and owned by 44-year-old Del Miller of Meadow Lands, Pa. Meadow Maid returned $11.60, $5.00 and $3.90.

At Saratoga Raceway, Sandalwood, a Hambletonian candidate, posted the season's fastest mile by a 3-year-old trotter over a half-mile track when she won the Class A-B handicap event in 2:05.

The filly from Two Gait Farm at Indianapolis was handled by Ralph Baldwin and paid $12.60, $7.90 and $4.50.

Munger Hanover won the second leg of Buffalo Raceway's Pacing Derby in 2:02, equaling the fastest time for the meet. The 6-year-old horse, reined by Levi Harner, earned half of the $15,000 purse for owner Margaret Zornow of Pittsford. The payoff was $17.70, $7.30 and $6.10.

Two more legs, each for $15,000 will be held before the $20,000 purse final July 25 and a follow-up consolation event for $7,500.

Dave Lean, Michigan State's 1958 track captain, won the British Empire 440-yard hurdles title in 1954 at Vancouver, B. C.

Toronto Leads International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Toronto's Maple Leafs, last year's International League's champs, have completed their long climb from the depths of the second division to the top of the pack.

The Leafs backed Jack Crimian's shutout pitching with 10 hits against Havana last night for a 2-0 victory that moved them into first place, a half game and .003 percentage points in front of runner-up Montreal.

The Royals lost an opportunity to cling to their precarious lead when they dropped a 6-2 decision at Miami.

In other games, Richmond defeated third-place Rochester 6-0 and Columbus edged Buffalo 7-6 in 12 innings.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A pair of swift Australians shoot at the world record in the mile run tonight in the 70th annual National AAU track and field championships. Two international marks already have been bettered.

Herb Elliott and Merv Lincoln won their mile heats with ease Friday night to set up their duel over the clay track at the Bakersfield Stadium tonight. Elliott won in 4:01.4 and Lincoln in 4:07.9. World records fell to homegrown athletes in the hammer throw and the 400-yard hurdles.

Boston's Harold Connolly hurled the 16-pound ball 225 feet 4 inches to surpass the record of 220-10 set by Russia's M. P. Krivonosov in 1956. Ohio State's speedy Glenn Davis ran the hurdles in 49.9 seconds to lay claim to his third world record.

The Buckeye runner holds the official world record for the 400-meter hurdles at 49.5 seconds. A week ago he sped 440 yards on the flat in 45.7 to clip a tenth of a second off that standard.

Connolly, who needed an injection to ease pain in an injured left collar bone, got off his record toss on his final throw.

Asked if he had his eye on the Russian's record, he replied, "No. I was just trying to beat Al Hall."

Hall, of New York's Athletic Club, took second at 217.5. Olympic champion Connolly, 26, is a high school teacher in Brighton, Mass. He weighs 222.

Davis, who had run the 400-yard hurdles just once before, said he also hadn't planned any record dash.

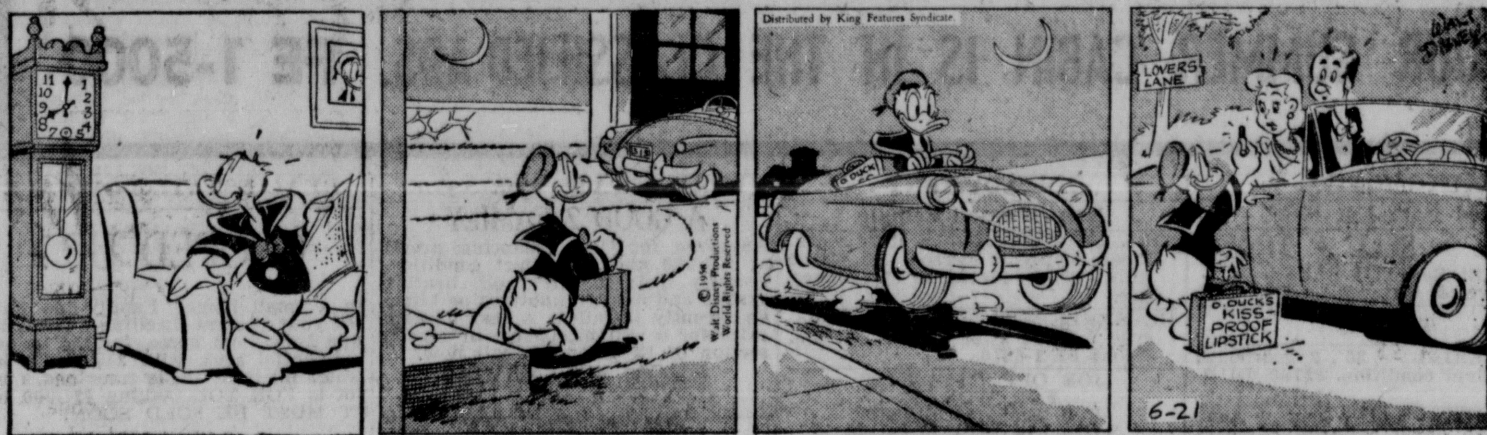

"I just ran," the Ohio State senior added, "but maybe my subconscious thought of a record."

DEATH

I wouldn't live forever, I wouldn't if I could, But I needn't fret about it, For I couldn't if I would. On death, through wit is oft displayed, No epigram could e'er be made; Poets stop short, and lose their breath, When coming to the point of death!

An inquisitive stranger passing through Kentucky, was introduced to Colonel Shelby. Stranger—Did you serve in the Confederate army, Colonel Shelby?

Why We Say--

SEVENTH HEAVEN

MOST HAPPY: Supreme happiness might be called "seventh heaven." The Moslems believe there are seven heavens piled one upon the other and each represent greater happiness. God and the angels are located in the seventh or "top" heaven.

Colonel (hastily)—Oh, no, suh! Stranger—Perhaps you were in the Union army then? Colonel—Certainly not, suh! Stranger—Then I assume that you have belonged to the reserves or the militia of the state. Colonel—No, suh. I have never belonged to any kind of military organization.

Stranger—Oh, I am beginning to see! You are one of those 'honorary colonels' that governors appoint?

Colonel—Not that either, suh. Many men hereabouts have official, judicial and military titles who are not entitled to them, but I came by mine legitimately, suh. I married the widow of Colonel Tarwater, suh.

Little Susie had been naughty, and her mother suggested that she mention the matter in her prayers. She did so, and this is what she said before going to sleep: "Dear Lord, I know I'm a bad little girl, and I do with you would help me to be better, and if at first you don't succeed, try, try, again!"

Bob Barker—Why is there water in a watermelon? Contestant—You've got me. Why? Bob Barker—Because the seeds are planted in the spring. —Ann Pugh, New Bern, N. C.

The reason a dollar won't do as much as it once did is because people won't do as much for a dollar as they once did.

He—What are you so sad about this evening, honeybunch? She—Oh, George, dearest, I was thinking that this would be our last evening together, until tomorrow night.

Death has a subtle charm in youth which it loses in old age. The little girl rushed into kindergarten late and in breathless excitement.

Little girl—We just got a new baby at our house. Why don't you come and see it, teacher?

Teacher—Thank you, but I think I'd better wait until your mother gets better.

Little girl—Oh, you don't have to be afraid, it's not catching.

When we pray for death we really desire a fuller life.

A visiting Texan tipped a waitress at a Chicago restaurant. Waiter—I beg your pardon, sir. Do you realize how much you just gave me.

Texan—That's to teach you a lesson boy, I didn't leave my usual tip because I wasn't too satisfied with your service.

Dairy Month Is Observed During Kiwanis Meeting

National Dairy Month was celebrated at the Kingston Kiwanis Club this week with an address on the "cow to bottle to consumer" theme and the serving of milk to the Kiwanians by two "Dairy Maids"—Miss Jackie Reithier and Miss Carol Lee Silkworth.

A. C. Fisher, a director of the General Ice Cream dairy division was the guest speaker.

N. Y. Ranks Second

Pointing out that the milk industry ranks in size with the automobile and steel industries, the speaker revealed that 127 billion pounds of milk were consumed nationally, and that New York State accounted for 10 billion of this quantity or 8 per cent of the national total. This places New York second on the national listing of importance in the milk industry—only the state of Wisconsin surpassing the Empire State.

Further figures on the milk industry in New York State indicated that 6½ per cent of the nation's cows resided here, and the cash income from milk alone is $45 million dollars as against the national total of 4½ billion dollars.

The speaker then touched on the definitions used by news agencies in speaking of the industry. "The farm is the producer and the dealers are those who buy from the farmers," Fisher said.

Justified Regulations

Regulations for the industry are strict but justified, according to Mr. Fisher who supported his contention with the observation that the product was perishable. He explained the various detailed operations necessary in the production and processing of milk, and pointed out that the cost to the consumer was directly reflected in the cost of operations. In support of his remarks concerning the consumer cost of milk, Fisher revealed that in 1914 it required 24 minutes of work to pay for a quart of milk, while in 1957 it took only seven minutes to earn the same amount of milk. He claimed that if the increase in cost to the consumer had kept pace with the percentage of time necessary to earn a quart of milk, "the price of milk today should be about 42 cents per quart."

In closing, the speaker said that the milk industry was a "service industry" which was constantly striving to increase the service to the consumer and maintain this service at a fair profit.

Police Seeking $20,000 — Theirs

NEW YORK (AP)—An embarrassed police department was busily at work today trying to solve the disappearance of $20,000 or more from its own safe.

Several guns also were missing. To make matters worse, nobody knew for sure just how much cash had vanished, or when.

The puzzle is in a steel-wire cage of the police property clerk's office across the street from police headquarters. There was no evidence that the huge strongbox had been tampered with.

Eighteen policemen and six civilians man the property office, but only the policemen and the property clerk know the combination to the safe.

The money and guns, whose disappearance was disclosed Friday, were being held as evidence in criminal cases such as robberies and burglaries. The money was in 25 envelopes, each marked for identification.

Property Clerk Thomas E. Rosetti said an audit begun two months ago established the loss. He said, however, that his $20,000 estimate was only preliminary and the figure might be more.

The only clue to the time of the disappearance was that it took place sometime between a March 1957 audit and the current one. He was warned that the property clerk had in his possession cash, jewelry and other property estimated at nearly a million dollars.

Doolittle to Attend

Insurance Convention

Wilfred G. Doolittle of Rosendale will participate on the program of a New York Life Insurance Co. convention July 6 to 10 at Bennington, Vt.

The meeting will be of executives and agents at the company's annual Star Club parley. Approximately 200 agents from upstate New York and New England will attend.

Doolittle's appearance is in connection with his duties as a member of the agent's advisory council in which capacity he has served for the past year. As advisory council member, he will report to the agents on his meetings with the company executives and will conduct the election of the new agent's advisory council member.

A member of the organization since 1946, Doolittle has never failed to qualify for one of these conventions.

A meeting of Plattekill Lions Club at Oddo House Wednesday evening completed arrangements for the featured "Night in Havana," to be held Saturday evening, June 28 at Villa Nueve, near Plattekill.

The awarding of a free trip to Havana, or other southern points will be highlighted.

Mrs. Albert Molson and Mrs. Burton Ward, chairmen of the Cerebral Palsy Fund Campaign in the Town of Plattekill, report the sum of $85 collected at special sales held at Plattekill and Clintonville Granges, and the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall in Modena.

Mrs. Fred Bernard, Miss Arlene Bernard and Mrs. Burton Van Aken were recently initiated as members of the Order of the Eastern Star Lodge, Highland Chapter.

Thomas F. DuBois of Newburgh, son of Addison DuBois, formerly of Modena, and grandson of Mrs. Edward Atchinson of this place, received his bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering, at graduation exercises held recently at Manhattan College, New York City.

Miss Annette Palmer, daughter of Eber Palmer of Newburgh and the late Norma Conklin Palmer, received a bachelor of science degree in business education at the State Teachers College, Albany, last week. Miss Palmer will teach at the Florida, N. Y. School beginning the fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reynolds have moved in the tenant house of Louis LeFevre, north of Modena village.

Two Say Farmers Need Protection Insurance Most

ITHACA — Two agricultural professors say many farmers are putting too much money into "investment type" life insurance policies at the expense of "protection insurance" for their families.

Profs. R. R. Smith and G. W. Hedlund of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University say "the protection feature of life insurance is generally more important to a farmer than the investment feature."

But, the professors report, a survey of New York farmers has shown that 60 per cent of their life insurance was in investment-type policies.

In a new "Extension bulletin—"Life Insurance for Farm Families"—Smith and Hedlund say "a farmer's business usually offers a better opportunity for investment than does life insurance."

Important to Family

"But the protection feature of life insurance is extremely important to the farm-owning family," they say. "The real risk a family takes is that the young farmer will die before the farm is paid off."

"If the farmer lives and stays healthy, he will eventually pay for the farm," they say. "And when he does, the family will have income from his labor and invested capital. Then, if he dies, the family will get income from selling or continuing to operate the farm."

Professor Smith says "most farmers should buy term, straight life, and family income policies rather than limited payment or endowment policies."

Discuss Property Value

In another new Extension bulletin—"Insurance for the Farm Business"—economists tell farmers about property, motor vehicle, liability, and health and accident insurance.

This was written by Professor Smith and J. R. Tabb, now an economics professor at Williams and Mary College, Norfolk, Va.

Smith and Tabb urge farmers to consider three points: 1) Chances of a loss occurring, 2) consequences if it does, and 3) how much it will cost to insure against it.

Both these bulletins are free to New York State residents. They may be obtained from County Extension Agents or by writing to the Mailing Room, Stone Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. Ask for Extension bulletins, 1002 and 1003.

Forest Fire Drives

400 From Homes

NORTH POLE, Alaska (AP)—A smoldering forest fire flaring suddenly out of control forced partial evacuation Friday of this town of 400 some 14 miles south-east of Fairbanks.

Several homes on the outskirts were threatened. Fire fighters from nearby Air Force bases joined civilians on the fire lines.

North Pole's principal claim to fame is based on the flood of mail sent here for cancellations before the Christmas season.

Killed in Crash

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—George A. Applegate, 18, of nearby Slingerlands, was killed early today when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into trees beside a suburban road.

World Briefs

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Pressing his campaign for an overhaul of Pan-American policies, President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil Friday night broadcast an appeal for a summit conference of all American presidents.

He said the top-level meeting should explore methods to increase public and private foreign investment in Latin America, boost technical assistance, stabilize commodity prices and get more grants from international financial organizations such as the U. S. Export-Import Bank.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The government claimed Saturday the capture of another North Celebes village in its drive to eliminate the rebel regime based at Menado.

Makalising, about 25 miles southeast of Menado, was captured Monday, an army information officer said.

Military sources said they expected Menado to fall shortly but some observers have predicted that guerrilla warfare will continue after that.

PARIS (AP)—Jean Raty, 64, president of the French Assn. of Iron and Steel Makers, died Friday at his home.

Raty was a director of many companies and a member of the consultative committee of the European coal and steel community.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgian Air Force Lt. Martin Paulus returned home today after 23 days detention in East Germany, where his jet plane was forced down by Red fighters.

His release was effected by the signing of a formal protocol between Leon Jacobs, Belgian consul general in Berlin, and Otto Winzer, the East German deputy foreign minister.

The United States has refused to sign such a protocol to obtain the freedom of nine U. S. Army men taken prisoner June 7 when their helicopter strayed into West Germany during a thunderstorm.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The district court of Zagreb Friday sentenced the former supreme provincial of the Jesuit order, Franja Jambrekovic, to 15 months' imprisonment.

He was convicted of "hostile propaganda and provocation of national and religious intolerance," the government newspaper Borba reported.

TOKYO (AP)—Crown Prince Akihito, reportedly the first heir apparent to the Japanese throne to be given the right to choose his own bride, is taking his time about making up his mind.

This was reported Saturday by a former imperial prince who is related to Emperor Hirohito by marriage. The source said the 24-year-old crown prince has not yet picked the girl who will someday share Japan's ancient throne.

Akihito's parents, the emperor and empress, are believed to have agreed to abide by their son's decision. The crown prince has been quoted as saying his wife would have to be someone like his 19-year-old sister, the beautiful Princess Suga.

Death Ruled Suicide

NEW YORK (AP)—An assistant art director for the Anaconda Copper Co. was found shot to death in his parked automobile today and police called the death an apparent suicide.

Eric Lakes, 41, of Manhattan, died of a single bullet fired into his head from a .22 caliber rifle, police said. The weapon lay in his lap.

Lakes' car was parked in front of the headquarters of the Polish mission to the United Nations, next door to a police station.

Police quoted Lakes' wife as saying they had separated a few days ago.

Wagner's Building Commissioner Quits

NEW YORK (AP)—City Building Commissioner Bernard J. Gillroy has sent his resignation to Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Charles H. Tenney, city commissioner of investigation, and a Manhattan grand jury have investigated charges of graft in Gillroy's department.

The commissioner has not been accused of any wrongdoing, although he conceded last November that graft could exist in the department without his knowledge.

As he turned in his resignation, effective Sept. 1, Gillroy said Friday:

"I've had just about enough. Things are bothering me that never used to bother me."

He will be 72 Oct. 26.
